N.J. Leaders Tout Ethanol Production In State

MICKLETON, N.J. — New Jersey Gov. James McGreevey joined N.J. Ag Secretary Charles Kuperus and the N.J. Farm Bureau at Brown Brothers Farm here Tuesday to show support for a proposed ethanol production plant in the southern part of the state.

The plant would be the first ethanol production facility in the Mid-Atlantic region, McGreevey said. Among its potential benefits, he cited expanded markets for farmers, the proximity of southern New Jersey to major gasoline refiners for blending ethanol in the fuel, and the useful co-products of ethanol production.

The proposed facility would be capable of producing about 40 million gallons of ethanol, 120,000 tons of feed-grade dried distiller's grain, and 100,000 tons of carbon dioxide, according to Ed Stahl of the Garden State Ethanol Project.

While the final site for the plant remains to be chosen, Stahl said the choices have been narrowed down to four locations in Gloucester and Salem counties south of Philadelphia. According to McGreevey, the goal is for a site to be selected by the first quarter of next year.

Ag Secretary Kuperus touted the project as the key to a successful grain business for the region's producers.

"We need to keep farmers on the farmland, and make sure it's profitable," Kuperus said.

Peter Furey, N.J. Farm Bureau director, noted that U.S. lawmakers have been been developing initiatives that include more cooperation between oil interests and renewable fuel advocates.

"The sparring between petroleum and ethanol is now finished. They've joined hands," he said.

Several renewable fuel standard bills have been introduced in Congress, and a recent analysis points to the energy security and economy-stimulating benefits of renewable fuels such as ethanol and biodiesel.

The Renewable Fuels Association, National Corn Growers Association, and National Biodiesel Board applauded the analysis conducted by economist John Urbanckuk of AUS consultants.

Urbanckuk studied the impact of increasing the renewable content of motor vehicle fuels from current levels to four percent by 2016. The study found that such a renewable fuels standard would increase the demand for corn used to produce ethanol from about 650 million bushels to 2.5 billion bushels by 2016, reduce crude oil imports by an average of 302 million barrels annually, and create 300,000 new jobs by 2016. The study also included figures for soybeans based on projected biodiesel production.

Weed Control: Landfill's Goats Maintain Greens

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU

NARVON (Chester Co.) — There are probably days when you've envied gourmet food writers while you think of the luxury cuisine that it is their job to eat.

If weeds and grass are high-end fare, then the goats and sheep on the hillsides of Lanchester Landfill are enjoying their jobs, too.

For the past three spring seasons, an increasingly large group of goats and sheep have been arriving at the landfill to keep weeds and grass low on areas inaccessible to mowers.

"We started with 25 at first, and have increased to 50 animals," according to Chester County Solid Waste Authority superintendent Gerald Myer.

Dr. Robert Herr and his wife Betty — operators of Nix Besser Farm, a sheep and goat operation — purchase the animals for the landfill and work as a consultants.

"What we're trying to do is keep it (vegetation) down," said Myer.

The 42 goats are responsible for the weeds while the eight sheep prefer to consume the grass.

"There are quite a few weeds, so there's more eating for goats than there is for the sheep," Myer said.

The animals have about 20 acres to graze, plus a sheltered area with a shed, water, and rubbing and climbing areas.

"Goats will browse and eat the things that would become bushy or trees," said Betty Herr. The animals chew down the vegetation that landfill operators do not want on the landfill, since large bushes or trees could breach the liner with their roots.

The flock is a mix of several breeds, as the Herrs purchase "anything that we feel that we can buy reasonable enough that will hardy enough," she said. They buy all nannies because they tend to be the most reasonably priced.

A former executive director of the landfill read about the use of grazing animals to clear power lines and pasture, and several years later, when time allowed for fencing and preparation, a herd was introduced onto the brush-covered hillside.

The public relations aspect of having the animals as part of a landfill has also been valuable, according to Myer. "It's a farming community, so we felt that it would appeal to them," he said.

Penn State Cuts Staff

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Nineteen people are losing their jobs in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences and dozens of additional positions are being lost through attrition and other changes as a result of funding from the state and federal governments that has been cut or has not kept up with inflation in recent years.

The economic downturn that contributed to state funding cuts for fiscal year 2002-2003, combined with a multiyear erosion of

New York Broilers/Fryers
ATLANTA, GA.
August 27, 2002
Report Supplied By USDA

Trucklot buying activity on ready-to-cook whole broiler/fryers was fair as dealers kept floor stocks in close balance and remained selective. Offerings of all sizes were sufficient for most immediate needs. Movement through retail channels was light and distributive draw was only fair. The market tone was about steady.

Corn Belt Feedstuff

St. Joseph, Mo.
August 27, 2002
Report Supplied By USDA

CORN BELT FEEDSTUFF: Wholesale Bids. Truck or Rail dollars per ton. Feedstuff prices were steady to mostly higher despite pressure from lower futures last week. Futures dropped considerably early last week, especially soybeans, due mainly to weather and also continued mixed emotions over production estimates to be released next week by the USDA. The lower markets were seen as over done which supported higher prices later in the week, spilling over into this week. Corn markets not hit as hard with corn now finding a comfortable trading zone as corn is made. Moisture that fell in the alfalfa fields should bring some relief and hopefully viewed as beneficial.

SOYBEAN MEAL: 48 percent rail was 2.00-3.00 higher from 182.50-184.50. 48 percent truck was 2.00 higher from 186.50-194.50 per ton.

CORN BY-PRODUCTS: Gluten Feed 21 percent, Interior Points steady to 3.00 higher at 65.00-68.00; Chicago was .50 to 4.00 higher from 60.50-72.00. 60 percent Gluten Meal, Interior Points steady to 5.00 higher from 275.00-280.00; Chicago was steady to 5.00 lower from 270.00-285.00 per ton. Rail Hominy Feed, Central Illinois Points was 2.00 to 3.00 higher from 71.00-74.00; truck was 2.00 to 3.00 higher from 70.00-76.00. Crude Corn Oil was steady at 21.00-22.50 cents per pound.

MILLFEEDS: Northwest steady to 4.00 higher from 61.00-72.00; Buffalo 1.00-4.00 higher at 51.00-61.00 per ton.

East Fluid Milk And Cream Review

Madison, Wis.
August 28, 2002
Report Supplied by USDA

Spot prices of class II cream, dollars per lb. butterfat: F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: 1.3045-1.3908. Delivered Equivalent: Atlanta: 1.3141-1.3908 mostly 1.3237-1.3812.

PRICES OF CONDENSED SKIM, dollars per lb. wet solids, F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: Class II, includes monthly formula prices: .9750-1.0200; Class III - spot prices - .8700-.9200.

SPOT SHIPMENTS OF GRADE A MILK: FLORIDA: This week - In 94, Out 0; last week - In 94, Out 0; last year - In 170, Out 0. SOUTHEAST STATES: This week - In 0, Out 0; last week - In 0, Out 0; last year - In 179, Out 0.

The base price for Class I milk for September 2002 is $10.46 per cwt., down $0.02 from August. A Class I differential specific to each pricing point (county) is added to the base price to determine the applicable Class I price. The Class II skim milk price for September is $7.62, up six cents from August.

Milk production levels range from steady to lower throughout the region Hot weather was prevalent in the Southeast over the weekend, but milder temperatures are being reported in the Northeast. Also, some much needed rain is falling on parts of the Middle Atlantic and Southeast this week. It is hoped that this relief from the hot, dry weather will allow milk output to rebound in the coming weeks. Fluid milk supplies are tighter in all areas of the region now that bottlers are filling the school lunch pipelines. Most schools will be back in session next week and bottlers' orders for milk are heavy Along with the schools starting, bottlers are running heavy over the weekend because most will be down on Monday, Labor Day Florida's milk needs have increased and imports are increasing Shipments this week came from Pennsylvania and Michigan For the other Southeast states, milk was pulled in via intra-company channels and no outside, spot loads were purchased However, contacts are commenting on the tightness of milk in the region. Manufacturing plants are nearly idle in the Southeast and operating on reduced schedules in the Northeast.

Condensed skim sales are reported as fair to good and some suppliers are selling nearly all their skim as fluid or condensed. Prices are steady, but suppliers are trying to push prices, particularly Class III, higher for September shipments.

The fluid cream market is firm. Prices are little changed as the CME weekly average butter price fell less than one-tenth-of-one-cent last week. Spot demand is holding up quite well, but some ice cream makers, as well as other cream users, expect to be down on Labor Day. Suppliers report tight supplies, but volumes seem to be in better balance than last week. Churning is light and often limited to only a couple plants in the region.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

SEPTEMBER 2–8, 2002

LABOR DAY, SEPT. 2

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, GRANDMA!

Fittingly Grandparents Day this year falls on September 8 just a day after the birthday of Grandma Moses an inspiration to anyone who s uneasy about the idea of an "old dog learning new tricks." Grandma Moses born Anna Mary Robertson in 1860, was a farmer's wife who lived near Hoosick Falls New York In her late seventies, she decided to take up painting, and she displayed one of her 'primitives' in a drugstore window in Hoosick Falls An art collector happened to see it and traced her to her farm, where he bought all 15 of her existing paintings and exhibited them, in 1939, in a show of contemporary unknown painters in New York's new Museum of Modern Art

Art is long, life is short.

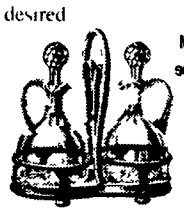
TIP OF THE WEEK

To treat insomnia, avoid decongestants or appetite suppressants. Consider a white-noise machine.

BROCCOLI PASTA

1 pound pasta (spaghetti or fettuccine)
1 medium onion, chopped
3 cloves garlic, pressed
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 head broccoli, chopped
1 tablespoon lemon juice
freshly grated Parmesan cheese

Cook pasta in boiling water until al dente and drain While pasta is cooking saute the onion and garlic in the olive oil Add the chopped broccoli and lemon juice, and continue cooking, stirring occasionally, until tender but not soft Serve over the drained pasta, and garnish with Parmesan cheese, as desired



Makes 4 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

September blow soft, till the fruit's in the loft.

When the wind is west, the fish bite best.

OPINION

This Lifestyle

It's always amusing to read from USDA what many farmers have already come to understand: it's hard to make a living on the farm. That's why so many people turn to work outside the farm.

In the July/August 2002 USDA Economic Research Service (ERS) Information Magazine, farm households are no different than other households, holding down multiple jobs. More than half of all U.S. farm operators work off-farm, according to the ERS, with 80 percent of them working full-time jobs. About half of all spouses are also employed off the farm.

Did you know that about 90 percent of total farm household income in 1999 originated from off-farm sources? The contribution of earned income off farm alone amounted to 53 percent of total farm household income.

What ERS and many other industries sometimes fail to understand is that farming is not just a job. For most, it is simply a way of life it's not the bottom line that counts for many, it's holding on to a precious way of living that nonfarm households sometimes can't comprehend.

The findings of the ERS report in AER 812, "Income, Wealth, and Economic Well-Being of Farm Households," includes some interesting things. There are many factors, including age and status of the farm operator, farm type and size, operator education, farm tenure, and family size. The most significant is the size of the farming operation. That seems self-evident.

ERS assures us that despite conventional thinking, farm households are not financially disadvantaged compared with other U.S. households. Part is the work ethic, imbued in farm operators since childhood. About half of farm households have both higher incomes and greater wealth than U.S. households as a whole. Of those households, 98 percent reported household income greater than consumption expenditures (farms being traditionally conservative in this regard, something many of us have understood since time immemorial).

Farms want to sustain that way of life, however they can. And they are more alike their nonfarm neighbors when they realize a dual-income household may have turned into a necessity if they want to maintain any kind of lifestyle at all.

To Manage Feed Costs, Inventories

Lancaster County dairy agent Glenn Shirk points out it is important to determine if you have enough feed to carry you through to next year's harvest season. If not, you may want to take action now to lock in feed supplies, quality, and prices.

If panic is driving up the prices of conventional feeds (corn, soybeans, hay, etc.) you may want to have a discussion with your nutritionist to see if there are some more affordable, alternative feeds that can be worked into the ration. Alternative feeds can include small grains, soyhulls, cottonseed, citrus pulp, and other by-product feeds. The sooner you act on these options, the more choices and the better prices you are apt to find.

As you analyze this year's silage inventories, think tonnage, not volume. If your corn was drought-stricken, the silage may not have packed as well and it may not contain its usual amount of dry matter tonnage. In other words, it could "feed out faster" and you could find yourself being out of silage prior to next year's harvest season.

When buying feeds, try to avoid paying "panic prices" for feeds of questionable quality. Acting early can help you stay ahead of panic situations. Be a good, fair negotiator. Corn silage will vary a lot this year, so price it according to quality. Short corn that has well developed ears may have higher-than-normal quality. Corn that has no ears or poorly developed ears may still have a lot of nutrients in the stalk and still have decent feeding value, perhaps 90-95 percent of normal.

Really stressed corn that is running low in moisture will have considerably less value, maybe only 60-80 percent of normal. Forage tests can help you get a better handle on its true value. Similarly, corn that is too dry and poorly packed or corn that is too wet will have reduced feeding value.

To Plant Emergency Forage Crops To Supplement Forage Supplies

In addition to seeking the best value in purchased feed, dairy and beef producers should plant emergency forage crops to add to the limited harvest from this dry summer.

Rain this week has made this an option that producers with feed shortages should pursue. At this point, the only crops available to plant this fall will be small grains: oats, rye, wheat, and barley.

Paul Craig, capitol region agronomy agent, suggests that successful planting of these crops is dependent on certain management factors. The first consideration would be soil moisture. With this week's rains to soften the soil and provide some moisture for germination, planting should be done as soon as possible. Even if the soil dries out again before the planting is accomplished, getting the seed in the ground will mean it will be ready for the next rain. The only risk at this point is the cost of planting, which is small compared to the cost of replacement feed.

Another consideration for double cropping would be which corn herbicides were used this season. Early season rains were helpful in reducing the affect of soil herbicides, but the unusual drought conditions could possibly result in many instances of higher-than-normal residue levels. Oats are the most susceptible of small grains to atrazine. Barley is the next most susceptible, followed by wheat. Rye is the least susceptible small grain to atrazine. Producers considering these crops should consult the pesticide label and their agronomic product suppliers for their opinions.

Oats planted in late summer have the potential to provide 3 to 5 tons of forage this fall, depending on the length of the growing season. Oats can survive fairly heavy frosts and still develop. The oats will head out and delaying harvest as long as possible will increase tonnage and feed quality.

Late fall conditions can be a challenge to get adequate wilting for ensilage. The use of inoculants will be beneficial. Many graziers have incorporated no-tilling oats into pastures on a regular basis. The planting rate should be 2 to 3 bushels per acre. Bin run seed can be used to reduce costs if germination is checked.

Winter grains can also provide forage this fall if planted early and at higher seeding rates. Most production will be next spring. If harvested or grazed this fall, try to leave three inches of growth. Many growers are considering mixing two bushels of oats with these winter small grains. The oats will be harvested this fall and then freeze out.

For optimum production, the addition of 40 to 50 pounds of nitrogen (N) is recommended. In many fields, there should be enough unused N from the corn crop. Growers will need to evaluate this on a field-by-field situation.

WHAT DO YOU MEAN, 'REPENT'?

Background Scripture:
2 Chronicles 29 through 30; 2 Kings 18 through 20.

Devotional Reading:
Psalms 122:1-9.

Following the tragic crime of Sept. 11 last year, there were two diametrically opposed reactions from religious quarters. One, representing many Moslems and a few Christians, saw these events as the judgment of God upon the U.S. and our way of life. The other reaction, primarily from American Christians, was that God is on our side because we are a Christian nation. (I would join with those who challenge whether we can any longer identify ourselves as 'a Christian nation.')

One prominent TV preacher said that Sept. 11 represented God's judgment upon our society. He said that it was a wake-up call for our nation to repent. "What do you mean, 'repent?'" was the thunderous reply of the great majority of Americans. One letter to the editor of a daily newspaper wanted to know if we were to "repent of being the nation with the most personal freedom, or of the highest standard of living in the world, or of its well-established reputation for generosity and compassion?"

I do not believe that Sept. 11 was God's judgment upon our nation, nor do I believe that the terrorists were in any way justified in their crime. At the same time, however, I do believe that we are in error if we believe that God is not calling us as a nation to repent. I believe we are the most free and materially well-off nation in the world, but that does not mean that our national life does not call for God's judgment.

The Chosen Few

Consider, for example, the Jews of Old Testament times. They were God's chosen people and, for the sake of argument, let's assume their society was the best at that time. Nevertheless, God judged them and found them wanting. Actually, perhaps it was because they were his chosen people that God expected more of Israel and Judah.

When Hezekiah ascended the throne in Jerusalem at the age of 25, he became king of the people whom God had elected as his own. Almost immediately, however, he set about to reform and revive the faith of his people and called them to repent. Apparently, the temple had fallen on hard times of disrepair and neglect. His first effort, thus, was to cleanse the temple, for the temple represented the people.

What began with the cleansing of the temple, therefore, culminated in a call for the cleansing of the whole society. His command to the Levites to "carry out the filth from the holy place" would become a call to get rid of the filth in their society. "For our fathers have been unfaithful and have done what was evil in the sight of the Lord our God; they have forsaken him, and have turned away their faces . . ." (2 Chron. 29:5,6).

'Laughed To Scorn'

The response was not unanimous. Some did answer his call, but in certain places — Ephraim, Manasseh, as far as Zebulon — "they laughed them to scorn" (30:10).

Of what did God's chosen people have to repent? This was the response, not only to Hezekiah's call for repentance and reformation, but to all of the prophets in Old Testament times. Amos, Hosea, Isaiah, and Jeremiah all called for the repentance of God's chosen people because their society was rife with corruption, bribery, indifference to and oppression of the poor, dishonesty, sexual immorality, and idolatry.

And what of us and our society today? Is there no corruption of which we need to repent? No bribery? Indifference to the poor? Dishonesty? Sexual immorality? And what about idolatry? Do you think God is not displeased with the materialism that has become the idolatry of our society? Do you think he does not judge America for the steady erosion of churches and denominations? Do you think that the billions of dollars spent on political campaigns to buy politicians escapes his judgment?

The call to repentance was tempered by the promise of God's grace: "For if you return to the Lord, your brethren and your children will find compassion. . . . For the Lord your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if you return to him" (30:9).

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook

• Step 2. Fill out the form. This requires the producer to make two decisions:

For the current federal fiscal year 2002 (October 2001-September 2002), the producer must elect to either receive or not receive the transition payment. If you elect not to receive the transition payment, elect a start month for FY-2002 Elect a start month for FY-2003 if you do not want to receive payments starting in October.

Most producers in Pennsylvania, those with less than 700 cows, will likely elect to receive the transition payment (see below).

• Step 3. Review and/or sign form AD-1026, Highly Erodible Land and Conservation (HELC) and Wetland Conservation (WC) Certification.

If you go down to the FSA office and fill out form CCC-580 during August and elect to receive your transition payment, your start month will be August. That means you will begin to receive monthly payments from USDA beginning in October. As it turns out, this is the earliest date that USDA's FSA offices will able to get the money in your hands. They must still receive all the necessary regulations and computer software. Again, the payments will be made only on eligible production and only in a month when the MILC payment is available (the Boston Class I price is below $16.64 per CWT).

The start month also sets the period of time for the transition payment. If your start month is officially September 2002, you may elect to receive a transition payment for the months of December 2001 through August 2002. The transition payment will equal the MILC payment rate times eligible production.

As stated earlier, most Pennsylvania dairy producers will likely elect to receive the transition payment. To see why, let's provide an example.

Suppose you have 60 cows and ship 100,000 pounds of milk per month. You sign up for MILC payments in August. Your start date is for the month of September.

The known payment rates are as follows:

That means our producer will be eligible for a total payment of $9,370 for the months of December 2001 through August 2002.

That said, our producer has the option to NOT receive the transition payment. This option only makes sense, however, if you are a large producer with 700 cows or more.

For example, suppose you market 1.2 million pounds of milk each month from 720 cows.

(Turn to Page A26)

The known payment rates are as follows

Year	Month	MILC Payment Rates
2001	December	$0.77
2002	January	$0.78
2002	February	$0.78
2002	March	$0.93
2002	April	$1.00
2002	May	$1.09
2002	June	$1.20
2002	July	$1.38
2002	August	$1.44
2002	September	$1.45
10 Month Avg.	---	$1.08

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Farm Show 2003 Exhibitor Spotlight

Exclusive to Lancaster Farming

Pa. John Deere Dealers To Partner In Farm Show Exhibit

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Various John Deere representatives from across Pennsylvania will be on hand at a 5,000 square foot display at the 2003 Farm Show in Harrisburg.

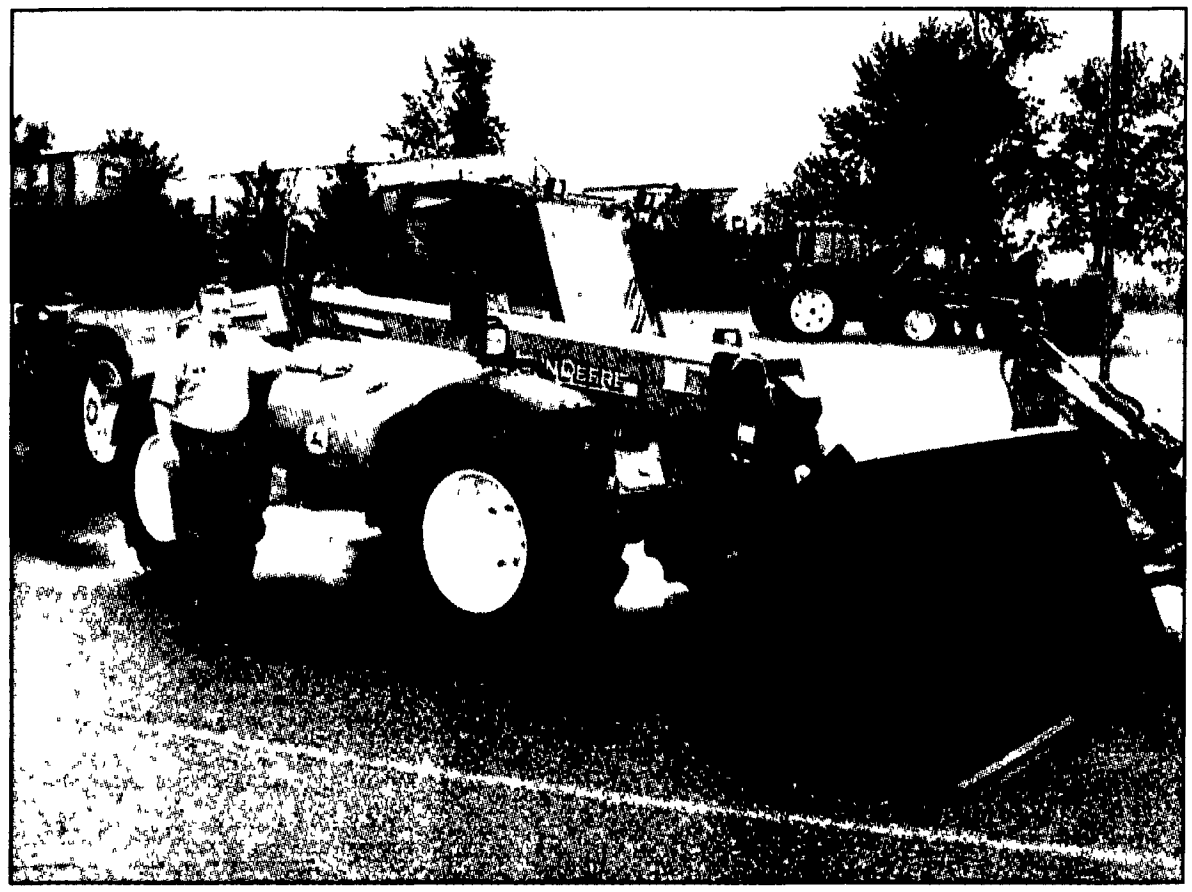
Ken Dietz, owner and general manager at Landis Bros., Inc., Lancaster, is coordinating the effort to bring together as many of the state's Deere dealers as possible for the event.

The display will feature equipment geared toward farmers in the Northeast, according to Dietz.

Dietz recently returned from Louisville, Ky., where dealers from across the country gathered for an introduction to John Deere's newest line of equipment.

"There are a quite a few new products," he said, including an "infinitely variable transmission" for tractors and a new line of self-propelled forage harvesters.

The equipment display will offer farmers the opportunity to familiarize themselves with tools that will help them be more efficient and profitable producers, Dietz said.



Ken Dietz is helping to coordinate a John Deere exhibit at the Farm Show that will include dealers from across Pennsylvania.

"(The Farm Show) is still a tradition, but secondly, it also serves a need for customers to look at what alternatives and solutions are available for them in their own operations. The agribusiness owner has to glean whatever information he can, to improve his operation, be more efficient, solve problems and be profitable."

Dietz is also organizing seminars to be led by John Deere specialists on various topics at the exhibit.

"We want to reach out to the customer that hasn't been coming to Farm Show," he said.

Sheep And Goat Field Day Set For Central Susquehanna

LIMESTONEVILLE (Montour Co.) — Sustainable goat and sheep production will be the focus of a field day and pasture walk at Bucky and Sherry Ziegler's Paradise Valley Organic Farm here Saturday, Sept. 7 from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Susan Schoenian, sheep and goat specialist from the Western Maryland Research and Education Center, will join Columbia County extension agent Dave Hartman and the Zieglers in leading the informal workshop.

Topics include integrated parasite management, finishing lambs and kids on pasture, identifying pasture plants, and grazing management.

Directions to the Paradise Valley Organic Farm: From Rt. 254 between Washingtonville and Milton, turn north toward Limestoneville. Go through Limestoneville and continue straight ahead at fork in road. The Ziegler farm is first farm on the left.

Registration deadline is Aug. 30. For more information call Dave Hartman at (570) 784-6660.

National Alpine Champion Wins Junior Show At Md. State Fair

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

TIMONIUM, Md. — "Finesse" was just that Tuesday afternoon, winning grand champion junior dairy goat here at the Maryland State Fair.

Wayne Cullen and Diane Kirsch, Cherry Glen Farm, Boyds, Md exhibited the Alpine dry yearling.

Cullen noted the doe was national champion at the American Dairy Goat Association National Show in Pueblo, Colo. in July. Cherry Glen Farm has won at the fair before.

Judge Kristina Bozzo, Galt, Calif., noted the doe had the strongest feet and legs of any other breeds in the show ring. Finesse competed against six other breeds.

Following is a list of show placings.

Ag Engineering Workshop For Ag Professionals

LEWISTOWN (Mifflin Co.) — Ag professionals — such as veterinarians, nutritionists, and other consultants wanting to learn more about the basics of dairy housing — are invited to attend an Ag Engineering Workshop hosted by Penn State Cooperative Extension.

The workshop will be offered at two locations: Huntington County Extension Office, Huntington, Oct. 1-2, and Lantern Lodge Motor Inn, Myerstown, Oct. 15-16.

Veterinarians who attend the workshop will also receive nine continuing education credit hours.

Ag professionals will expand their knowledge and expertise of ag engineering as it relates to dairy housing. Freestall and tiestall housing issues will be addressed at the workshop. The emphases of the workshop will be to learn evaluation and troubleshooting skills to be used with existing facilities.

The workshop will be a combination of classroom lecture, roundtable discussion, and on-farm demonstration and troubleshooting. During day-one classroom lectures, attendees will learn key areas regarding facility evaluation. Topics will include design management and troubleshooting of stalls, ventilation, watering systems, feed areas, biosecurity zones, and cow traffic patterns.

Day two of the workshop will consist of visits to a parlor/freestall setup and a tiestall facility. Participants will use their skills learned during day one to evaluate and troubleshoot the facilities with the assistance of ag engineering instructors. Recommendations will then be provided to the producer.

This is designed to be an interactive workshop. Registration is limited to 25 people at each site. The registration fee of $175 per person includes the cost of instruction, program materials, meals, and transportation during the day-two farm visits. Late registration fee is $200 for registration received after September 9, 2002.

For more information about the Ag Engineering Workshop for Ag Professionals, contact John Tyson, (717) 248-9618, or jtyson@psu.edu. More information about the workshop and registration information is also available on the Web at AgEngWorkshop.cas.psu.edu.

Four K's Cow Tops Allentown Dairy Show

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — A 4-year-old Holstein from Four K's Farm of Blandon, Berks County, was selected as supreme champion at the Allentown Fair Dairy Show Wednesday.

"She's the kind of cow you like to get up at 4 o'clock in the morning and go out and milk," judge Alan Hostetter said of the winner, Windy Crest Royalist Vegas. He described the cow as "beautiful, balanced, and powerful."

David Kopfer and his father Robert manage Four-K's Farm, which is also home to Jill Vail's Myline Ayrshires. Altogether, the dairy operation houses about 40 Holstein and 20 Ayrshire milking cows as well as Brown Swiss and Lineback showstock.

Vail's champion Ayrshire cow was a close second in the bid for supreme champion, Hostetter said.

The show also selected a supreme champion bull, a summer yearling Holstein shown by Crystal Miller of Lenhartsville.

Mil-Joy Villain Rodeo is one of about 10 homebred bulls being raised on Mil-Joy farm. The bulls mostly go for homebreeding purposes.

The dairy is managed by Crystal's father, Scott Miller, along with her grandfather and uncle. The Miller's milk about 260 Holsteins.

Following are results for each of the six breeds at the show:

Maryland Brown Swiss Show Increases Futurity Payouts

TIMONIUM, Md. — The Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Futurity has gained a track record for the quality of Brown Swiss 2-year-olds exhibited at the Maryland State Fair each year. Several winning futurity animals have gone on to be named All-Americans. This year will be no exception as it will celebrate the ninth annual Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Futurity to be conducted in Timonium, Md. on Sunday, Sept. 1 at the Cow Palace in conjunction with the Maryland State Fair. The honor of lining up the classes will be done by Judge Steve White, New Castle, Ind.

For the ninth year in a row, participation continues to be strong, therefore the committee decided to increase the payout to the Futurity class, as well as recognize the special winners with very nice awards. The following is a summary of the payout for this year: first-$300; second-$200; third-$150; fourth-$125; fifth-$100; and all other entries from sixth place will receive $90.

"The outstanding Brown Swiss exhibited at the Maryland State Fair merited the idea to showcase the Futurity here," said Warner, Futurity Committee. "With the growing interest from Maryland breeders, and the surrounding states the committee wanted to reward the breeders who participate in the Futurity with higher premiums." There will also be a new pay-in structure beginning in November which will be for the 2004 Futurity. The three payments will be $5 for the first entry as a calf, the second as a yearling in the amount of $8, and the final payment of $10 for that Futurity year.

The Maryland State Fair Brown Swiss Show begins at 12:30 p.m., Sept. 1 with the 2-year-old Futurity class starting about 2 p.m. in the Cow Palace, Timonium, Md.

	CATTLE	CALVES
THIS WEEK	2539	1704
LAST WEEK	2599	1709
LAST YEAR	2378	1897

CATTLE: Compared to last weeks closing prices, slaughter steers began the week trading on a weaker undertone. However, bids trended mostly steady to close out the week. Packers were relatively quiet late in the week as many plants prepare to go dark for the Labor Day Holiday. Holstein steers traded mostly steady, with slaughter heifers not well tested. The direct feedyards moved cattle 1.00 to instances 2.00 lower on a dressed basis late in the week, with the Southern Plains trading a few live cattle from mostly 63.00-64.50. The majority of the direct feedyards in the Southern Plains have yet to trade the bulk of their cattle as of Friday morning. Slaughter cows sold 1.00-2.00 lower on light packer demand. Slaughter bulls sold mostly steady. Supply included 38 percent slaughter steers, 4 percent slaughter heifers, 41 percent cows, 6 percent bulls, with the balance feeders.

Penn State Cuts Staff

federal appropriations, has prompted the College of Agricultural Sciences to reduce the number of faculty, extension educators, and support staff conducting research and cooperative extension programs.

The college's two-year plan will result in the elimination of about 20 faculty positions, 35 county-based extension educator positions, and 28 staff positions.

"This past year has been tumultuous, with the sputtering economy placing our resource base in a most precarious position," said Robert Steele, dean of the college. "Despite action by the state legislature to partially restore proposed deeper cuts to our agricultural research and extension budget lines, we are faced with the need to downsize our programs."

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania cut $10 million from Penn State's appropriation in the middle of last year because of revenue shortfalls resulting from the state's tight economy. And this year's funding from the state was reduced $12.2 million from the previous year's appropriation. These cuts have resulted in the state appropriation making up only 13.4 percent of Penn State's overall budget.

In anticipation of budget shortfalls, the college instituted a "soft" hiring freeze earlier this year, filling only positions of critical importance. Although the resulting cost savings allowed the college to divert some resources to high-priority areas, they were not enough to avert program reductions, Steele said.

As of July 1, the college's full-time workforce included 316 faculty, 298 county extension educators, and 597 staff. The college's downsizing plan targets the following key areas:

• Graduate assistantships. The college allocates about $2.5 million annually to its 12 academic departments for graduate assistantships. To meet shortfalls and rising benefits costs, this budget line will be reduced by about $525,000 in the next two years. "On the other hand, we have considerable opportunity to maintain support for graduate students by securing more extramural research funding," said Steele.

• Research. In addition to the reduction in graduate assistantships, 10 research faculty full-time equivalent positions (FTEs) and 18 research staff FTEs will be lost, resulting in about $1.5 million in savings over two years.

• Extension. To meet budget shortfalls, $2.5 million in savings must be found, divided roughly equally between University Park and county-based extension operations. Resulting reductions at University Park will affect 10 extension faculty FTEs in the college's academic units and 10 staff positions. The number of county-based extension educators will be reduced by about 35 over the same two-year period. While each of the eight extension regions will be affected, these reductions will be based on program priorities and will not be simply "across the board."

Many, but not all, of these staff reductions will be accomplished through retirements and resignations, Steele said. "However, we are still faced with the reality of having to lay off some college personnel. We are notifying six individuals at University Park and 13 staff members in county-based positions that they are being placed in layoff status, effective Oct. 1.

"Clearly, these are steps that nobody wants to take," he said. "However, our organization, like any other, is not immune to swings in the economy. We simply can't spend money that we don't have and we must position ourselves to move forward when the economic picture brightens, as it most certainly will."

Weed Control: Landfill's Goats Maintain Greens

Having the animals live on top of the covered landfill also helps to refute the idea that landfills are toxic, when they see that the animals live on the hills, noted Myer.

During the operation's annual open house, for example, "people want to see the goats." The landfill has opened a scenic overlook site on a closed area that can be used by the public for viewing the surrounding countryside. The area, open on Sunday afternoons, attracts people who want to see their farm, said Myer, and the goats are a side benefit and fun to watch during their trip.

Myer is contemplating whether or not to expand the herd and build more shelter and water areas. "We're at the point where we have to decide and fix things up better for them or keep it as a novelty thing," he said.

The goats arrive in late April or early May after they have been acclimated by the Herrs. "Goats will browse and eat the things that would become bushy or trees," said Betty Herr.

The Herrs purchase the animals, then worm, vaccinate, and keep the flock for 3-4 weeks "so that we're sure that they don't have pneumonia, the shipping fever's gone, and their eyes aren't sore," said Herr.

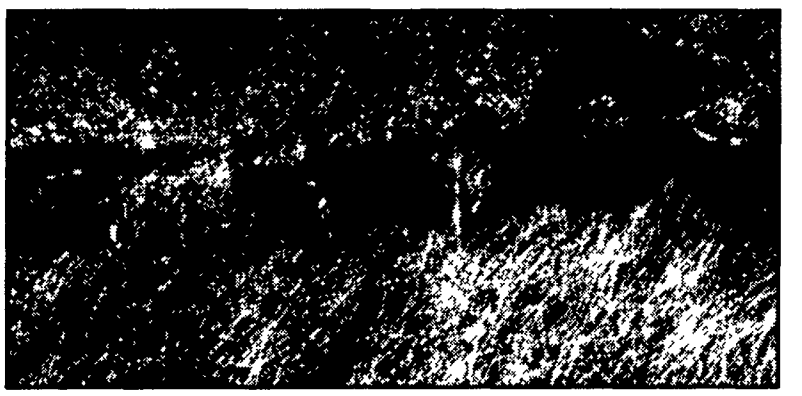
Depending on the winter weather, the goats are picked up around the week after Christmas.

"The reason we do it then is because that's when the big Muslim holiday falls, and that's a profitable time to sell them," said Herr.

The flock has been relatively trouble-free. An employee, usually Myer, checks on the animals every day, although there have been few health problems. The goats are relatively low cost and need very little care, he said.

As with any animal, however, the goats have taught their keepers a few lessons. The first year, for example, the sheep were no sooner off the truck when they broke through the fence and steadfastly resisted efforts to bring them back in for several days.

Now, however, a several-strand electric fence keeps would-be adventurers inside. "Actually, the whole place is fenced in, so they were really not going to go anywhere," said Myer. "And keeping them in has not been a problem since there is plenty to eat."



Although this looks like a scene from the western states, this flock of goats roam the hills in Chester County.

This flock of Jakob sheep had two new additions since the spring.

Goats quickly adjust to their 20 acres of unusual pasture, easily working around the pipes that move landfill gases to two central areas where it is burned. Also, the 100-150 trucks rumbling below no longer bother them.

The animals adjust quickly to the 100-150 trucks that rumble around the perimeter of their pasture each day, soon turning a deaf ear to the loud clanks and bangs of the vehicles traveling over the speed bump near their barn. Trucks run, in fact, from 6 a.m to 5 p.m. "They soon learn that it's not going to hurt them," he said.

Besides goats, Myer and others have considered the idea of putting buffalo or llamas into the pastures. However they are concerned about erosion problems caused by the wearing of large hooves across the hillside.

Goats have applications for more than landfill areas, according to Herr. "A lot of people we know get them for rough areas. They do very well on multiflower rose.

"Cattle and goats work well together," she said. For example areas that cattle will not graze, goats will browse down.

"It's an economical way to get into places — you don't have to use weed killers or equipment."

Farm operators "deliberately put them into areas that are real brushy, with weeds and briars, where other livestock won't go, and then you can run other livestock in after them because they make paths and clean it up," she said.

Editor's Note: This is a monthly column from the Pennsylvania Ag Statistics Service (PASS), a field office of USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA). The Website is www.usda.gov/nass/.

CROP FORECASTS

Aug. 1 field crop forecasts are based on the June Acreage report combined with results of the monthly ag yield survey conducted throughout the growing season. We have yet to measure the effects of August weather. Stay tuned for the Sept. 12 crop report for the corn and beans update!

Small grain production in Pennsylvania is expected to be above last year with oat production up 4 percent, barley up 13 percent, and wheat up 31 percent. The large increase for wheat is due to more acres harvested combined with higher yields.

As of Aug. 1, yields are expected as follows: 64 bushels for oats, 73 bushels for barley, and 59 bushels per acre for wheat.

At 90 bushels, corn yields in Pennsylvania are down from last year by 8 bushels as of Aug. 1. Combined with less harvested acreage, production is forecast at 85.5 million bushels, down 12 percent from 2001.

Soybean production is expected to be 12 percent less than last year. The forecasted 33-bushel average yield is 2 bushels below 2001 while acreage is also reduced from last year.

Dry alfalfa production in Pennsylvania is forecast at 1.44 million tons as of Aug. 1. A lower expected average yield of 2.4 tons combined with less acreage harvested to make the forecast 14 percent less than last year.

Dry other hay production in Pennsylvania is forecast at 1.76 million tons as of Aug. 1. A lower expected average yield of 1.6 tons was mostly offset by increased harvested acreage to make the forecast just slightly less than 2001.

Tobacco, both Maryland and Pennsylvania types, anticipate increased yields and acres harvested. Compared to last year, Maryland-type production is up 18 percent while Pennsylvania-type is up 7 percent.

Apples are forecast at 470 million pounds in Pennsylvania, 2 percent below last year. Pear output, at 5,300 tons, is down 4 percent from last year. Grape production of 45,000 tons is down 27 percent from a year earlier. Peach production is forecast at 60 million pounds, down 20 percent from 2001.

Dairy Pest Management

The chemical usage statistics program in NASS was established so that accurate information, not guesses and assumptions, is available to the American public. It is also important for EPA to have actual usage data as they re-evaluate registered chemicals available to farmers. Otherwise, EPA will assume that maximum application rates are always used on field crops, fruits, vegetables, and livestock.

We are releasing the first "Agricultural Chemical Usage" report that provides actual usage statistics about insecticides used in the dairy industry. Nationally, Permethrin is the most popular insecticide applied to dairy cattle and Piperonyl butoxide is most widely used in dairy facilities. Dairy facilities were defined as milking parlors, pens, sheds, barns, etc.

The 36-page report can be found at www.usda.gov/nass/. Use the Search button to find the "Agricultural Chemical" report released on May 29, 2002.

Maple Syrup

Pennsylvania's 2002 maple syrup production is estimated at 55,000 gallons, down 20 percent from last year's 69,000 gallons. This is the first year number of taps are being published. The number of taps set in Pennsylvania totaled 337,000 during 2002, compared with 360,000 taps in 2001. Therefore, Pennsylvania maple yield for the year 2002 averaged 0.163 gallons per tap, down from the 0.192 gallons per tap last year. Temperatures were generally too warm for good sap flow in Pennsylvania.

Nationally, maple syrup production in 2002 totaled 1.36 million gallons, 29 percent above the 2001 crop. There were 6.58 million taps set this year compared to 6.48 million taps in 2001.

In Pennsylvania, the value of the 2001 crop was $1.75 million, up from the $1.34 million in the year 2000. Nationally, the crop was valued at $30.1 million.

Complete maple statistics are found in the 32-page June issue of the "Crop Production" report release June 12, 2002. It can be found at www.usda.gov/nass/. Use the Search button and select Maple Syrup from the Commodity list.

Mushrooms

U.S. Agaricus mushroom sales totaled 838 million pounds for 2001-2002, 1 percent below last year. Pennsylvania accounted for 55 percent, with 460 million pounds. California ranked second with 128 million pounds or 15 percent.

The 2001-2002 U.S. Agaricus crop was estimated at $875 million in sales, with Pennsylvania sales at $390 million. Nationwide, Brown mushrooms, including Portabello and Crimini varieties, accounted for 92.9 million pounds, 11 percent of all Agaricus sold. The value of sales for Brown mushrooms was $115 million, or 13 percent of total Agaricus sales.

In 2001-2002, there were 129 Agaricus growers nationwide with 78 of those in Pennsylvania. The previous year showed 137 growers nationally with 80 in Pennsylvania.

The 15-page report has additional data about specialty mushrooms and certified organic mushrooms. See www.usda.gov/nass/; use the Search button to find the "Mushrooms" report released on August 16, 2002.

Countdown To Census

The 2002 Census of Agriculture will be mailed to all growers across the nation in late December or in about four months.

Funding for agricultural research, education, services, and programs for growers of all sizes depend on state and county statistics from the Census of Agriculture. So it's important for Pennsylvania to count every farm — even small, part-time, and hobby farms.

You only have to produce $1,000 of agricultural products or keep only a few head of livestock or equine to count as a farm for Census purposes. Remember, "Agriculture Counts," and we are counting on your response for an accurate Census. When you get the Ag Census form, please fill it out and return it right away. Thank you!

N.J. Leaders Tout Ethanol Production In State

Meanwhile, in southcentral Pennsylvania, plans for a possible ethanol production plant are "continuing to move forward," according to Russ Montgomery, president of Regional Economic Development District Initiatives.

The project began last year when the York County Economic Development Corporation created an agricultural alliance group to study the potential of an ethanol plant within an area that includes Adams, Berks, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Lebanon, Lancaster, and York counties.

The results of a feasibility study released earlier this year showed good economic promise for such a facility in the area. While there are "still a number of questions to be answered," site selection should be finalized within a few months, Montgomery said.

You know the MILC program payments are only available on the first 2.4 million pounds of milk marketed each fiscal year. (The current fiscal year ends September 2002). Thus, you will exhaust your 2.4-million-pound cap during the first two months of the fiscal year during December 2001 and January 2002. Your choice then is either to take the 2.4 million pounds on the transition payment or for the month of September 2002. This of course assumes that you sign your MILC contract during August.

For our 720-cow operation, the transition payment will be $18,600 ($9,240 for December 2001 and $9,360 for January 2002). The MILC payment for September, on the other hand, will be $17,400 (a MILC payment rate of $1.45 per CWT on 1.2 million pounds of milk).

In this case, since the MILC payment is higher during the transition period, the 720-cow producer will likely elect to receive the transition payment. A larger producer, however, may elect to forfeit the transition payment and take the MILC payment for September 2002 if that payment is higher.

- Step 4. Provide verifiable production history.
- Step 5. If you are a member of a special group as identified by USDA, you can elect to disburse your MILC benefits through a cooperative. This is an option that may have appeal for our Amish and Mennonite communities. USDA will allow MILC benefits to be disbursed by a cooperative marketing association that serves the Amish community or other special groups.
- For example, let's say you are an Amish producer and do not want to directly receive your MILC benefits from USDA. You can instead arrange to have the transition payment and monthly MILC checks go through your cooperative into your milk check. Procedures regarding these provisions have not yet been released.

Fisher's Jersey Reigns Supreme At Morrison's Cove Open Show

KRISTIN RUSSELL
Blair Co. Correspondent

MARTINSBURG, (Blair Co.) — After two days of judging a near record number of animals exhibited during one of the hottest Morrisons Cove Dairy Shows in recent memory, judge Jeff Reasner choose the Jersey champion as the supreme champion of the Morrisons Cove Dairy Show.

The Jersey aged cow, owned by Ashley and Kristen Fisher, daughters of Keith Fisher of New Enterprise, Bedford County, placed over the Holstein grand champion, owned by Ronnie Morse of Clearville, Bedford County, selected as reserve supreme champion.

Honorable mention for the title of supreme champion was the Ayrshire owned by Jason Mowry of Bedford County.

Though an "open show" — open to both breeders and junior exhibitors from any county, many of the 325 entries, including champions, were exhibited by youth.

Globe-Run Farms, of the John and Alice Foster family of Petersburg, Huntingdon County, walked away with both banners for Premier Breeder and Premier Exhibitor.

A listing of the top three placings by class and breed follow:

AYRSHIRE

Spring calf: 1. Alan Brant. 2. Edna Schilling. 3. Sara McCutcheon.
Winter calf: 1. Amanda Brant. 2. Brants Homestead. 3. Paul Replogle.
Fall calf: 1. Paul Replogle. 2. Courtney Huntsman. 3. Alan Brant.
Summer yearling: 1. Jason Mowry. 2. Alan Brant. 3. Brants Homestead.
Spring yearling: 1. Amanda Brant 2. Yolanda Rice. 3. Brants Homestead.

Northeast Order Uniform Price Announced For July

BOSTON, Mass. — Erik F. Rasmussen, market administrator for the Northeast Marketing Area, has announced that the statistical uniform price paid by milk dealers (handlers) regulated under the Northeast Order for July 2002 is $12.05 per hundredweight ($1.04 per gallon) for milk delivered to plants located in Suffolk County, Mass. (Boston). The July statistical uniform price is $11.95 for delivery to plants in New York, N.Y., and $11.85 for delivery to plants in Philadelphia, Pa. The statistical uniform price is the benchmark minimum producer blend price paid to dairy farmers, prior to allowable deductions, for milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat, 2.99 percent protein, and 5.69 percent other solids. The price received by an individual dairy farmer will vary as the component composition of a farm's milk differs from the established benchmarks and by the location of the plant(s) to which the farm's milk is delivered.

Rasmussen also stated that the producer price differential (PPD) for July is $2.72 per hundredweight for milk delivered to plants located in Suffolk County, Mass. The PPD represents each producer's share of the value generated by the marketwide pool on a hundredweight basis. The PPD, which is added to the payment producers receive for their milk's components, is adjusted for the location of the receiving plant. The statistical uniform price and PPD decrease by scheduled amounts the more distant the plant receiving producer milk is from Suffolk County, Mass.

The Class prices for milk pooled in July are as follows: Class I, $13.87 (Suffolk County, Mass.); Class II, $11.14; Class III, $9.33; and Class IV, $10.45. Comparable prices for July 2001 were: Class I $18.59, Class II $15.96, Class III $15.46, and Class IV price $14.81. The component values for July are protein, $1.8095 per pound; butterfat, $1.0929 per pound; other solids, $0.0150 per pound; and nonfat solids, $0.7633 per pound.

Milk receipts from producers totaled 2.188 billion pounds. Class I utilization, milk processed as beverage milk, was 39.4 percent of producer milk receipts. The average Class I utilization was 39.3 percent in July 2001.

The manufacture of Class II products such as cream, ice cream, yogurt, and cottage cheese utilized 19.0 percent of producer milk. Milk used to manufacture Class III products such as cheese (American and Italian) and evaporated and condensed products utilized 32.4 percent of total milk receipts. Class IV usage (butter, nonfat and whole milk powder) equaled 9.2 percent of the total.

DEALING WITH DROUGHT-STRICKEN CORN SILAGE
Glenn A. Shirk
Extension Dairy Agent
Lancaster County

Once the corn is in the silo, the next question many farmers ask is, how do we feed this year's corn silage?

That is the very same question I posed to Virginia Ishler, member of the Dairy Alliance staff at Penn State, and here is some of her response.

"Growing conditions across Pennsylvania have been so variable that corn has been harvested very early. Some corn is only two feet tall, and there are many places where corn is fairly normal. As is the usual case, there is no one answer that fits all situations. However, some basic tools are available that can be adapted to individual farms.

"Because rainfall has been so spotty, farms may have fields that have not been affected by the drought as severely as other fields. This can add another layer of variability in feeding this year's corn silage. Monitoring dry matter weekly out of storage will be a valuable tool. Regardless of the structure in which corn is ensiled, dry matter can change significantly throughout the year. Investing in a Koster tester or microwave oven and a good scale is worthwhile.

"Drought-stricken corn, if ensiled at the proper moisture content for the particular storage structure, can make nutritious silage. Absence of ears does not imply that corn silage lacks fermentable energy. Forage portions can contain reasonably high levels of soluble sugars. It is preferable to allow corn to develop as fully as possible, even if ears and grain are lacking. The protein content of drought corn is typically higher compared to normal corn silage. The crude protein content can range from 9.5 percent to 12.5 percent, depending on its stage of maturity.

"If possible, a composite fresh corn silage sample should be taken as the forage is being harvested. A standard forage analysis, including nitrate testing, is recommended. This will help the nutritionist prepare for upcoming ration changes. Another corn silage sample should be analyzed again when feeding out of the storage structure.

"Nitrate testing is recommended again. Although nitrate levels should be reduced by half after the ensiling process, it may be beneficial to know what the nitrate levels were prior to ensiling compared to feedout. Because of forage shortages, some farms may not have the luxury of a 3- to 4-week fermentation period. If corn is fed out only after one week of ensiling, that may not be enough time to significantly reduce nitrates. If nitrates are a concern, slowly introduce the corn silage into the ration over a period of two to three weeks to allow animals to adapt and to reduce any risks. Other strategies include feeding another forage prior to feeding the suspected or high-nitrate silage, feed forages or total mixed rations more frequently to reduce meal size, or feed at least three to five pounds of grain per animal daily before feeding a high-nitrate forage.

"If corn is harvested when it is short and immature (up to and including silking stage), it is not recommended to add nonprotein nitrogen (NPN) at the time of ensiling. Very young corn prior to tasseling many contain a high crude protein level and be rather high in moisture content. Adding NPN at the time of ensiling has been known to cause irregular fermentation and possible toxicity problems. Moisture levels of more than 70 percent may result in higher NPN losses and adversely affect fermentation.

"Have patience with your nutritionist this year. Even with all the tests available to check protein fractions, sugars, starch, lignin, etc., there are still many unknowns that sometimes entail a trial-and-error approach. Consider the following questions when examining how cows are responding to this year's corn silage.

"1. Was the corn silage harvested at the proper dry matter? 2. Did the corn silage undergo a normal fermentation? 3. Is there much variation in the forage analyses between samples taken this Fall? 4. Does corn silage make up the majority of the forage dry matter? 5. What is the quality of the other forages being fed? (if droughty corn silage is not the main forage, problems may lie with the other forages) 6. Is my nutritionist balancing rations for undegradable protein, soluble protein, and the carbohydrate fractions?"

"More information on feeding droughty silage and nitrates can be found at the following Web address: http://www.das.psu.edu/dcn/catforg/index.html. Local extension offices have access to these publications."

Drought conditions can cause widespread feed shortages and create panic in the marketplace. Corn and soybean prices have already started to escalate. If you will be short on feed, start managing your feed inventory and feed prices now. If the more traditional feeds (corn, beans, silage, hay, etc.) are starting to get pricey, ask your nutritionist about the possibility of using some more reasonably priced alternative feeds and begin to take steps now to lock in supplies and prices.

Tioga Seasonal Dairy And Breeding Forum/Pasture Walk Set

MILLERTON (Tioga Co.) — Persons interested in seasonal dairying and breeding challenges connected with it are invited to a pasture walk on the Russell Root farm here Thursday, Sept. 5 from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Guests will tour the Root farm and pastures and participate in a discussion on seasonal dairy and breeding led by Steve Washburn, reproductive physiologist from North Carolina State University.

Farmers should come prepared to discuss details about how they manage reproduction in their herds, including successes and failures.

Washburn is particularly interested in seasonal breeding and calving management of pasture-based dairy herds, including those with crossbred cows. He was the project leader on a four-year research project in North Carolina that examined various aspects of pasture versus confinement grazing systems with Jerseys and Holsteins.

Washburn is meeting with many grazing groups in the Northeast. The objective of these pasture walks among experienced dairy graziers is to allow further growth in their knowledge and management expertise in topics related to seasonal dairying.

By the end of the summer, we hope to have established a network of experienced dairy grazier groups that continue to function together for interactive learning beyond the limits of this project.

Root's farm is located in the northeast corner of Tioga County. From Rt. 15 north of Mansfield turn east onto Rt. 328. Follow Rt. 328 to Millerton. Turn left on North Road (Lighthouse Restaurant is on the corner.) Travel about two miles to the Root Ranch Farm sign on the right. Look for the Penn State signs.

Please call the Penn State Cooperative Extension in Tioga County at (570) 724-9120 or email jcw17@psu.edu to reserve your spot on this pasture walk. There will be a $3 lunch fee.

Monthly Seminars For Poultry Producers To Begin Sept. 9

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Economic and legislative challenges on the home front top the list for discussions at the Poultry Management and Health Seminar Series.

In this year's first monthly seminar Sept. 9, Amy Van Blarcom, director of governmental affairs with the PennAg Industries Association, will touch on what she sees as the issues of the day facing Pennsylvania agriculture.

The third noon seminar series is scheduled at the Kreiders Restaurant in Manheim on the first Monday of the month.

Gregory Martin (PSU, Lancaster Co.), Mike Hulet and Paul Patterson (PSU, Department of Poultry Science) coordinate the seminars and consult with poultry industry representative in planning meaningful topics.

The planning committee this year included: Paul Hann, Purina Mills; Tom Pantano, Tyson Foods; Randy Groff, Northeast Agri Systems; Doug Stone, Wenger Feeds; Guy Martin, Sauders Penn Dutch Eggs; Gary Thompson, Kreider Farms; Chris Pierce, Heritage Poultry Management; and Rich Roenigk, York Ag Products. The following dates and titles are the topics for the seminar series.

The seminar starts with a noon buffet lunch ($10) followed by the seminar speaker's presentation.

- September 9: PA Agriculture Legislative Update and Issues. Amy Van Blarcom, PennAg Industries Association
- October 14: Avian Influenza: Conclusions From the Live Bird Market Closure and Strategies for the Future, Cheryl Hall, USDA
- November 11: Cool Weather Ventilation Tips: Managing Temperature and Ammonia, Eileen Wheeler, Ag and Bio Engineering, Penn State University
- February 10: Laboratory Tests for Poultry, Eric Gingrich, University of Pennsylvania, New Bolton Center
- March 10: Hot Weather Ventilation Tips: Evaporative Equipment and Other Strategies, Northeast Agri Systems and Hershey Equipment
- May 12: Water Use and Quality on Pennsylvania Farms-Leon Ressler, Lancaster County Cooperative Extension
- June 9: Fly and Beetle Control: The SWAT Team Approach, Gregory Martin, Lancaster Co. Cooperative Extension

Other Pennsylvania poultry events in the coming year are:

- PA Game Breeders and Hunting Preserves Annual Meeting, February 23-26, Days Inn, State College.
- Poultry Progress Day, March 6, Lancaster Co. Farm and Home Center.
- Poultry Sales and Service Conference, April 1-2, Penn Stater, University Park.

Additional education events in the region that the Penn State help organize include:

Fisher To Participate In Dialogue At Museum

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Advanced Agricultural Institute at Landis Valley Museum and The Ag Issues Forum will host Pennsylvania Attorney General Republican candidate for governor, Mike Fisher, for a "Pennsylvania Agricultural Issues Dialogue" Friday, Sept. 6, at Landis Valley Museum, Lancaster.

Both parties' gubernatorial candidates were invited to participate. The holding of a second dialogue featuring Rendell is under exploration at this time.

The purpose of the dialogue is to allow the Pennsylvania agricultural and agriculture related business community to become more familiar with the candidate and his position on key agricultural issues facing Pennsylvania.

The event will kick off with a continental breakfast and informal interaction with Fisher from 8 a.m.-8:30 a.m. in the Historic Yellow Barn at Landis Valley Museum, followed by the dialogue from 8:30 a.m. till 10 a.m.

Tickets are $20 and can be obtained by calling Landis Valley Museum at (717) 569-0401, ext. 200. Proceeds from the sale of the tickets will cover event costs and support The Advanced Agricultural Institute at Landis Valley Museum.

FSA Requires Update On Acreage, Base And Yield Records

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — Commodity producers have until Aug. 31 to verify and update records on planted and prevented planted acres filed with the Farm Service Agency, according to Jenifer Hershey, Dauphin County executive director, FSA.

Non-participating producers who do not have an existing Production Flexibility Contract (PFC) contract with FSA also have until Aug. 31 to report acreage and provide verifiable documentation of prior year plantings if they want to participate in all farm programs for the 2002 through 2007 crop years.

"Reviewing, verifying and updating bases and yields may be the most important thing we ask producers to do this year," Hershey said. "The information we have on file must be correct in order for producers to receive accurate direct and counter-cyclical payments in the future."

To assist, FSA is sending letters to producers across the country asking for their updates. The letter includes a summary acreage history report showing 2002 PFC crops and contract acreage along with acreage history by crop for each of the years 1998 through 2001 for covered commodities. Included are planted acres and/or acres prevented from being planted for 1998 through 2001.

If the information in the letter is correct, and changes are not necessary, the producer does nothing. If the information is not correct a producer should visit the local FSA offices before the Aug. 31 deadline and provide verifiable documentation of planted and/or prevented planted acreage and yields. Verifiable documentation may include seed receipts, production records and crop insurance records.

The 2002 Farm Bill provides for direct and counter-cyclical payments to be made to eligible producers of covered commodity crops for the 2002 through 2007 crops. Covered commodities include wheat, corn, sorghum, barley, oats, upland cotton, rice, soybeans, sunflower seeds, canola, flaxseed, mustard, safflower, and rapeseed.

For further information, producers can contact the FSA office in their area. Offices are listed in the U.S. Government section of the Blue Pages in the telephone directory under Agriculture or visit FSA on the World Web at http://www.fsa.usda.gov.

Farm Aid 2002 Coming To Western Pennsylvania

BLOOMSBURG (Columbia Co.) — Pennsylvania Farmers Union has announced its support for the Farm Aid 2002 concert to be conducted Sept. 21 at the Post-Gazette Pavilion outside of Pittsburgh.

Pennsylvania Farmers Union President Larry Breech said he was pleased with Farm Aid President Willie Nelson's decision to hold the nation's largest farm benefit concert in Pennsylvania, explaining that it could not have come at a more critical time.

"Right now Pennsylvania farmers are fighting to stop a rapid expansion of corporate hog farms and hopefully Willie Nelson and Farm Aid will help to raise a greater awareness of this issue," Breech said. "This support will add strength to our efforts in assisting family farms and ranches in their battles against the adverse conditions of low farm prices and harmful effects caused by the concentration in agriculture and the rush to create corporate farms."

Farm Aid was organized in 1985 by Willie Nelson, Neil Young, and John Mellencamp to raise awareness and money to support and promote family farmers. In these efforts, Farm Aid has raised more than $24 million. Through public education and grants, Farm Aid supports efforts to promote sustainable agriculture, fight factory farms, advocate for fair farm prices and provide credit counseling and direct assistance to farm families.

"Farm Aid and its supporters continue to honor their long standing commitment to family farmers, ranchers and rural communities," Breech said. "We are very pleased to have these efforts brought to our state and hope it will bring attention to the issues affecting our family farmers today."

Tour Of Manure System To Be Conducted At Bucks County Farm

PENNSBURG (Montgomery Co.) — An open house will be conducted Sept. 10 from 6-8 p.m. at the Jim Hallowell Dairy Farm in Bucks County to showcase the newly installed manure handling system.

The tour will feature a 160,000 cubic feet manure storage pit with a liner, hydraulic ram, manure reception hoppers, and other beneficial items for dairyman Jim Hallowell that were possible through partial funding from the USDA EQIP Program and the PA Growing Greener Program.

Also to be discussed at the open house are the new phosphorous requirements for nutrient management plans, equipment that can aid farmers in handling the manure, and funding sources available to help with the installation costs.

Last year Hallowell started the whole process by preparing a nutrient management plan. With a 180-cow herd, Jim was concerned about fully utilizing the nutrients in the manure, saving time while storing and handling the manure, and doing his part to protect the Tohickon Creek Watershed. The tour will show how he is able to accomplish those objectives.

In addition to Hallowell, on hand to explain the system and answer questions will be Bucks/Montgomery County Nutrient Management Specialist Bill Domenico, and representative from USDA-NRCS, Mid-Atlantic AgriSystems, Mandata Construction Co., Deihl Vault and Precast Co., Litzenberger Construction Co., Ken Beer and Son Excavating, and the Southeastern PA Resource Conservation and Development Council.

The Hallowell Dairy farm is located at 7554 Easton Road (Route 611) near the intersection with Bedminster Road (Route 113) in Bucks County.

For more information about the open house on Sept. 10, call Nutrient Management Specialist Bill Domenico at (215) 822-5840, ext. 110 or SEPA RC&D Coordinator John Metrick at (215) 541-7930.

For more information about the Southeastern Pennsylvania Resource Conservation and Development Council, visit their Website www.separcd.org or call their office at (215) 541-7930 in Pennsburg, Montgomery County.

Pork For New York Efforts Completed

NEW YORK, N.Y. — A total of $9,647.78 was raised for the relief efforts for the workers at Ground Zero, the site of the September 11th terrorist attack in New York City.

The relief effort was initiated by Reno and Park Thomas, Beavertown.

A total of three deliveries of pork were made in January, march, and April.

Leidy Packing, Souderton, trucked the pork products to the city.

Thank you certificates were mailed to all who donated to the program.

A Dry Cow Booster That Costs 7¢ a Day

Hoffmans Horse and Cattle Powder is an ideal tonic for cows over freshening. Feed 6 wks. before freshening. 1 Tablespoon a day. (Two weeks over freshening, feed 1 Tablespoon in the morning & 1 Tablespoon in evening)

Cows will clean better after freshening. Cows have a lower somatic cell count and will have less mastitus problems. Great for reproduction tract and cows will cycle better after freshening. Will help rumen function over freshing. Less feet problems and less stress

This is an over-all good booster if fed to dry cows, and it will pay you big dividends.

LET'S TALK ABOUT GROWING YOUR BUSINESS

John Berry
Penn State

"Wait a minute," I hear you saying, "in this economy, I'm lucky to be keeping my business afloat. How can I think of getting bigger?"

"Aha!" I reply. "Now is exactly the time to consider growth."

Why? Because the same process of examining how to grow your business helps you figure out how to survive. After all, the same principles apply: you have to determine how to use limited resources to bring the greatest results in terms of customers and dollars. Now is when competitors are cutting back on their marketing, making it easier for you to attract customers. In fact, a recent study by the management consulting firm McKinsey and Company confirmed that companies that commit to business development in downtimes come out stronger when the economy rebounds.

Many businesspeople don't give much thought to their growth process. They go out there and start selling. The result could be they scatter their limited money on diverse efforts, producing little or no results.

Growth process key choices are:

- New product development. You create and offer additional products or services. This can be to your current market or to new markets.
- New market development. You offer the same products or services, but to additional markets.
- Increase market share. You go after the same market with the same product or services, but you market more aggressively.
- Opportunistic. You respond to opportunities as they come along.

Most of us grow our businesses opportunistically. But growing opportunistically is hit or miss. You're just as likely to be distracted from your core business as growing toward a better future. Let's say you take on a client because you want the income, but it means spending a lot of money developing new products you can't sell to anyone else. Not necessarily the best use of your time!

Instead, by becoming proactive about your growth, you have a better chance not only of succeeding but also in getting a better return on your investment. Consider this: If you've been in business for some time, you already have invested a lot in your company, and not just money. You've developed or sourced products or services, created marketing materials, established contacts and customers, set up administrative procedures, perhaps hired employees.

Financially, the most advantageous way to grow is by getting more business using your existing resources rather than having to spend a lot of additional money. Once you start evaluating growth options that way, you'll probably find it doesn't make a lot of sense to create a lot of new products (unless, of course, your product is out of date and all markets for it are shrinking). It just costs too much and takes too much time. And then you still have to market them. So you may want to eliminate the choice of "new product development."

Going after new markets for your existing products is a way to leverage your current resources, although you'll have to invest in additional marketing expenses. You may even have to create new marketing materials, especially for that market. If your current market is large enough, your current competitors weak enough, and your product or service good enough, the best way to grow may be to just become more determined and consistent in your marketing to your current target market. That way, you get the most leverage out of your existing assets.

Whatever you do, don't just sit there! Remember, every year, you'll lose some customers just from natural attrition. And there are always new competitors. So you could find your business is soon shrinking if you don't keep going and growing.

Blood Drive Set In Ephrata Review Lobby

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — A blood drive will take place in the lobby of the Ephrata Review Building, East Main St., Monday, Sept. 9, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The drive is being sponsored by employees of The Ephrata Review, Lititz Record Express, and Lancaster Farming to commemorate the victims and heroes of the Sept. 11 tragedy.

The public is invited to participate in this drive. Appointments are urged to reserve your time slot, but walk-ins are welcome. To make your appointment, please call the Ephrata Review office, (717) 721-4410.

At the same time, a canned food collection will take place for the local food bank.

Pa's Chesapeake Bay Successes Highlighted At Meeting

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) Secretary David E. Hess recently highlighted Pennsylvania's many accomplishments in protecting the Chesapeake Bay. The Secretary took part in a bus tour of area watershed restoration projects for the Chesapeake Bay Executive Council's Citizen Advisory Committee.

"Pennsylvania is making excellent progress in meeting its Chesapeake Bay commitments outlined in the Chesapeake 2000 Agreement," said Secretary Hess. "This is being accomplished by Pennsylvanians working hard at the local watershed level to make our state a leader in preserving the Chesapeake Bay."

"We are excited to show Secretary Hess and the Citizens Advisory Committee that a group of local residents can make a positive impact on our community and the bay," Save Our Creek President, David Lloyd said.

Pennsylvania has targeted its focus and funding on nutrient pollution management and nonpoint source pollution reduction to achieve the greatest environmental benefit. Nearly 90 percent of Pennsylvania nutrient loadings to the Chesapeake Bay watershed are nonpoint source in nature.

Nutrient pollution comes from sources like nitrogen fertilizers and cow manure. "With the Susquehanna River contributing one-half of the fresh water to the Chesapeake Bay, we take our Bay commitments very seriously in Pennsylvania and we will continue to cooperate with our downstream neighbors to meet Chesapeake Bay objectives," said Secretary Hess.

"With funding from Pennsylvania's Growing Greener initiative, we are looking to the citizens of our watersheds and investing our energy in making real environmental progress."

Secretary Hess provided a guided tour of the Ephrata Borough Park constructed wetlands project and the Church Street project, which is currently under design. The projects are on Cocalico Creek.

The borough park project was funded in 1999 through DEP as a watershed restoration and action program (WRAP) grant. The Save our Creek watershed association received the grant for this wetland project.

Save our Creek also received a $115,650 Growing Greener, round three grant in 2001, for the Church Street project that is currently under design.

The Church Street Project will consist of streambank stabilization using natural channel design. The project includes the creation of a riparian buffer on about 2,000 feet of the creek.

"These two projects are excellent examples of the improved stream conditions after a project is completed," said Secretary Hess. Pennsylvania has been a leader in adopting award-winning programs to improve the quality of water reaching the Chesapeake Bay and in working with key partners, like county conservation districts, to achieve the pollution reduction goals for the Bay.

Berks County Grazier Maximizes Soil Returns

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

BETHEL (Berks Co.) — Eleven years ago changes began taking place in the pastures of Papa Farm.

When Brian Mohn began his pasture-based program "it was hard to find information on rotational grazing," he said. "I read Lancaster Farming articles and got ideas that migrated from Lancaster."

Mohn along with his wife, Karen, and daughters Beverly 12, Carolyn 10 and Judy, 8, have managed the farm for 11 years for a Philadelphia businessman.

His investigation into grazing came because of a concern for good usage of the ground he said. I wanted to get the most out of this moderately productive ground.

"A lot of it was trial and error initially," he said. County agents helped in his education by conducting pasture walks and grazier discussions that helped to educate Mohn.

In the initial days I traveled to Lancaster for pasture information to learn about water quality projects he said. Besides adding streambank fencing Mohn has put in his own concrete stream crossings.

Now "to get a profitable operation I don't see any other way you can be in the cow/calf business without being in the grazing business," he said. Because of smaller framed animals with improved genetics – and carefully maintained pastures that the animals do not have to be fed supplemental hay or grain for the most part the operation's costs have declined.

Pennsylvania Spokesman

A year ago Mohn went to America's Forage and Grassland Council's conference in Springdale Arkansas as Pennsylvania's spokesman. Every spokesperson gave a 12-minute presentation on what forages mean to them.

The main audience is university researchers, USDA pasture management people scientists and extension agents," he said. "We were given the opportunity to teach the teachers. They wanted more information to take back to educate others.

There were people from all over the country competing. There were very diverse speeches from graziers, hay producers and dairy producers.

Mohn's speech addressed

PFGC Mainstay Charts Progress

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Richard Hann knows the history and workings of the Pennsylvania Forage & Grassland Council.

For 34 years, Hann has been a vital part in the organization, handling the finances and acting as chief coordinator of events board meetings, and membership matters. He has served as secretary-treasurer since 1968. In addition to those responsibilities he assumed a new executive director post in 2000.

Hann recently reflected on PFGC's history along with changes in agriculture and forage management that have occurred through the years.

First formed in 1960 as the Pennsylvania Grassland Council (PGC), the organization became affiliated with American Grassland Council in 1963. The name was changed to Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council in 1976 to more fully recognize its role in the state's forage-livestock industry.

Dr. John Bashin, then a Penn State Extension Forage Specialist, was the first president and Charles Wolgemuth, general manager of Milton Hershey Farms

New Report Tracks Canada, U. S. Cattle Numbers

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) published a new report Aug. 23 to keep track of Canadian cattle numbers as well those in the U.S.

This publication is a result of a joint effort by Statistics Canada and NASS to release the number of cattle and calves by class and calf crop for both countries within one publication. This information was requested by the U.S. cattle industry to provide producers additional information about potential beef supplies. U.S. inventory numbers were previously released on July 19, 2002.

All cattle and calves in the U.S. and Canada combined totaled 120.5 million head on July 1, 2002, 1 percent below a year earlier. All cows and heifers that have calved, at 48.7 million head, were slightly below a year ago.

All cattle and calves in the U.S. as of July 1, 2002, totaled 105.2 million head, 1 percent below the 105.8 million on July 1, 2001 and 1 percent below the 106.3 million two years ago. All cows and heifers that have calved, at 42.9 million, were slightly below the 43.0 million on July 1, 2001 and 1 percent below 43.2 million two years ago.

All cattle and calves in Canada as of July 1, 2002, totaled 15.3 million head, down 1 percent from the 15.4 million on July 1, 2001, but 2 percent above the 15 million two years ago. All cows and heifers that have calved, at 5.8 million, was down 1 percent from the 5.9 million on July 1, 2001, but relatively unchanged from two years ago.

The complete report with charts of numbers by class and provinces is available online at http://www.ams.usda.gov/lsg/mncs/nass.htm. The provinces are Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia.

The next "United States and Canadian Cattle" report will be released at 12 p.m. EST on Feb. 19, 2003. For information on this report, call Steve Anderson at (202) 720-3040 or Mark Elward at (613) 951-8715, office hours 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. EST.

Angus Leaders Gather

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Junior Angus members and advisers from 26 states gathered Aug. 1-4 in Sacramento, Calif., for the 2002 LEAD (Leaders Engaged in Angus Development) Conference. Nearly 100 participants traveled to the West Coast for the annual four-day event, which focuses on creating future leaders for the beef industry.

The National Junior Angus Association (NJAA) sponsors LEAD. Speakers at this year's event, "From St. Joe to Sacramento — On the Rail to Success" focused on marketing, communications and the responsibilities learned in the show ring segment of the industry. In addition to industry issues, the attendees learned more about working as a team and enhanced their leadership and interpersonal skills.

Greg Lawley, California Department of Food and Agriculture, welcomed the group to California. Terry Cotton, general manager of Angus Productions Inc. (API), presented a talk that outlined the history of the Angus Journal and highlighted the variety of communication services available through API.

Bedford Fair Supreme Champion Is A Jersey

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — A 6-year-old Jersey named Shady Space Jude Pammy was the supreme champion of the Bedford County Fair. It was the second such honor bestowed on this cow in a week. Pammy was also named supreme champion of the Morrison's Cove Dairy Show in Martinsburg.

She is owned by Kristen and Ashley Fisher ages 14 and 17, daughters of Keith Fisher of New Enterprise.

Judges Jason Myers and daughter, . Kelly Myers Zepp, both found her to be an outstanding cow.

Ronnie and Pam Morse of Clearville took reserve honors with a Holstein.

"This fair always brings outstanding entries," said judge Myers. "All of the champions are outstanding but these two stand out a little above the rest."

Other grand champions shown at the fair were: Roger Brant, Ayrshire; Nicholas Burkett, Brown Swiss; Aaron Gable, Guernsey; Madison Fisher, Milking Shorthorn; Becky McGee of the AK Mohr Farm, Red and White.

Supreme champion was awarded a banner and blue ribbon by Dennis Browell representing Agway. Reserve champion received $100 and a banner from Pete Hamming of Alta Genetics.

In other dairy competition at the Bedford Fair, prizes were awarded as follows:

Red Meat Production Up 10 Percent, Sets July Record

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Commercial red meat production for the U.S. totaled 4.02 billion pounds in July, up 10 percent from the 3.64 billion pounds produced in July 2001 and a record high for July.

Beef production, at 2.43 billion pounds, was 11 percent above the previous year and a record high for July. Cattle slaughter totaled 3.19 million head, up 8 percent from July 2001. The average live weight was 1,248 pounds, up 32 pounds from July a year ago.

Veal production totaled 16.7 million pounds, 6 percent above July a year ago. Calf slaughter totaled 95,700 head, up 15 percent from July 2001. The average live weight was 290 pounds.

Pork production totaled 1.56 billion pounds, up 8 percent from the previous year and a record high for July. Hog kill totaled 8.07 million head, 8 percent above July 2001. The average live weight was 260 pounds, unchanged from July a year ago.

Lamb and mutton production, at 16.3 million pounds, was down 4 percent from July 2001. Sheep slaughter totaled 257,600 head, 6 percent above last year.

At the Maryland State Fair this week, judge Terry Rawn, far left, picked champions for the Ayrshire show. Mary Creek, Hagerstown, Maryland, of Palmyra Farm, stands at the halter of the senior and grand champion Ayrshire. Jason Mowry, Roaring Spring, owns the reserve senior and reserve grand champion. They are joined by Samantha Valentine, Maryland Ayrhisre Princess.

Allentown Hosts Breeding Swine Show

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

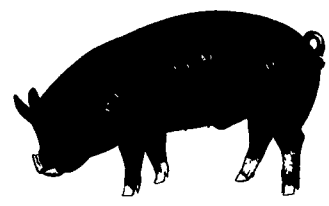
ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — In a show that brought almost 200 hogs to the ring, John Strawbridge and Carl Rabenold's animals came out with supreme breeding animal honors.

The gilt that comes the closest to the ideal gilt, according to Bomgardner, was lean, big-framed, and heavily muscled, yet flexible and athletic. Bomgardner gave the nod for supreme champion gilt to John Strawbridge's January Poland China gilt.

Strawbridge, 18, is in his last show season as a 4-H fair exhibitor. He is the son of Donna Strawbridge, White Hall. Strawbridge's show circuit includes not only county fairs but KILE and Louisville, besides the Farm Show.

In the boar show, supreme champion placing came down to the Duroc, Landrace, and Hampshire boars. Bomgardner's pick was "a complete kind of a pig," as far as length of body and frame size.

Carl Rabenold's Hampshire, a homebred animal, is part of the family farm's hog operation in Kutztown. The Rabenold family brought 38 hogs, including market and breeding animals, to the fair.



Carl's son Todd exhibited the hog. The win is a first supreme champion title in the 20 years since Todd has been a 4-H'er, he said. The homebred animal will go on to KILE and be kept as a herd boar.

Daryl Bomgardner, Selinsgrove, judged the show. Bomgardner, a sales representative for Hoober, Incorporated, has judged nine hog shows this year, and has been judging in show rings for six years.

John Strawbridge's Poland China gilt was named supreme champion gilt in the breeding show. He is joined by judge Daryl Bomgardner and Ron Miller, fair fund administrator in the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

A Hampshire boar owned by Carl Rabenold took home supreme champion boar honors. Pictured is Todd Rabenold for his father, judge Daryl Bomgardner, and Ron Miller.

Grange Fair A 'Family Reunion'

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

CENTRE HALL (Centre Co.) Approximately 150,000 people will visit this year's 10-day Centre County Grange Fair, now in its 128th year, according to fair board secretary Sue Irwin.

The thing that distinguishes the fair from other similar events, concur many, is the "town" that springs up for the fair each year, since the event offers tent and recreational vehicle (RV) spots.

Actually, "tenting" at the fair is done large scale — the fair hosts 960 tents and 1,400 RVs and motor homes each year.

"It's a big family reunion," said Irwin. "Some people have been in the same tenting spot for generations."

The spots are not only filled to capacity but also hard to come by. "They are passed down through generations — very few new ones come available," she said. Irwin estimates that the fair has 300 years' worth of names waiting for a spot, at the current rate that the spots are coming available. Additionally, there are 600 names on the trailer waiting list.

Besides international visitors, regulars to the fair include Pennsylvanians and visitors from other states from as far away as California, New York, and Arizona or as close as New York, Maryland, and New Jersey.

"We believe the fair to be the family reunion for Centre County," said LeDon Young, on the memorabilia and marketing committee for the fair. "People come home from all over the country. The idea of a harvest home is very traditional. We have continued that fall gathering of families and friends and neighbors at the Grange Fair."

Kitty Rudy, who grew up in Boalsburg and moved to Warrensburg, Missouri, still makes a point of returning to the fair. "You just come — it's family," she said. Her children, who now have families and lived in Missouri and Colorado, also return to the fair. It is the feeling of returning home, she said, "that's what makes us unite."

At the horse arena, both draft and light horses compete in several days of action. Open, hunter, and draft shows are part of the shows in the arena, besides a special rodeo where 70 children compete in classes with stick horses. Only Centre County residents competed in Tuesdays horse show.

A highlight of the horse shows is the six-horse classic hitch show. "We gave out $2,500 in that one class," said Shelly Weaver, horse show manager. Besides Pennsylvania competitors, exhibitors also came from Ohio and New York to the show, which was conducted Saturday evening. "The crowd was unbelievable, said Weaver. The whole way around the arena they were lined up five deep. It was very impressive." Sixty draft horses competed in the show.

The goat show featured 97 dairy goat animals and 89 market animals.

The sheep show brought out 143 breeding sheep and 65 market lambs.

In the market hog show, 160 animals competed.

The dairy cow show had 175 dairy animals compete.

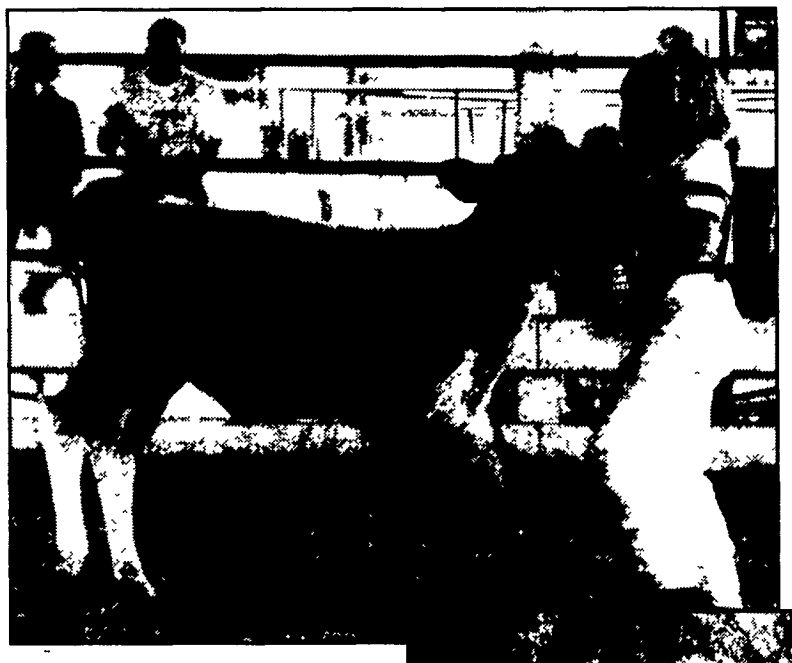
Andrew Rhoads, Howard, won first place in the tent decorating contest with this display. This is his and his family's sixth year entering the contest with a display. The paper mache statue took 300 hours to make, estimates Rhoades. The skyscrapers are made of cardboard.

The best doe in show title went to Toggenburg "Sunny," owned by Russell Mark, Spring Mills. The goat was also reserve champion at the West End Fair and will compete at the Bloomsburg Fair, said Russell, who has shown goats for four years and also exhibits beef and pigs from the family's Walnut Ridge Farm. He and his sister, Ashley, brought 12 goats to the fair. The show was judged by Todd Biddle.

This display, second place in the tent decorating contest, honored the victims of September 11.

In Sunday's junior beef show, Trisha Bracken, 14, and Buddy came home with grand champion honors out of a 62-head show. Trisha, a freshman at State College High School, keeps her show animals on her grandparents 119-acre Red Rock Acres farm, Julian.This is her second year showing cattle and her first year showing pigs. She is the daughter of Jeff and Susan Bracken and a member of the 4-H Centre County Beef Club.

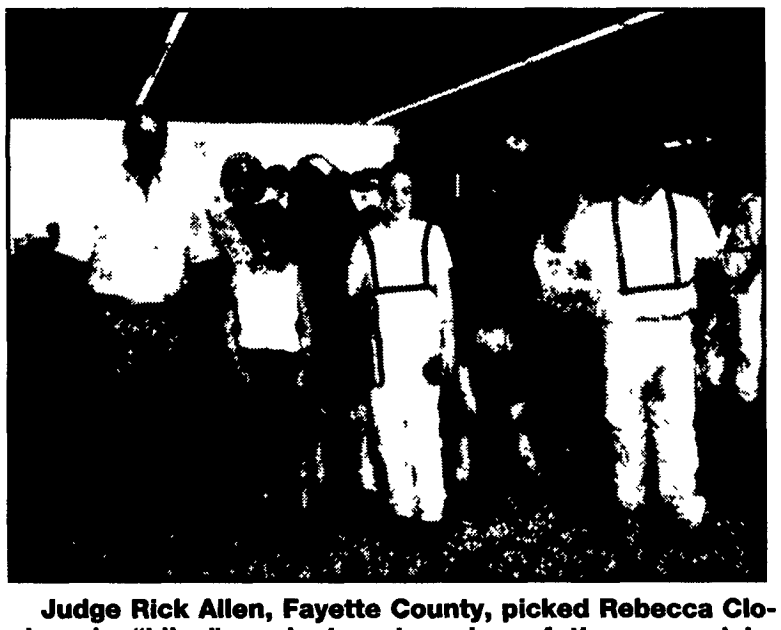
These jars were part of the extensive display of items entered at the fair for judging.



Michelle Carbonara, 9, Millheim, leads Lineback "Lily" into the ring during Tuesday's open dairy show. She is the daughter of Jason and Lynne Carbonara, Pine Dell Farms.

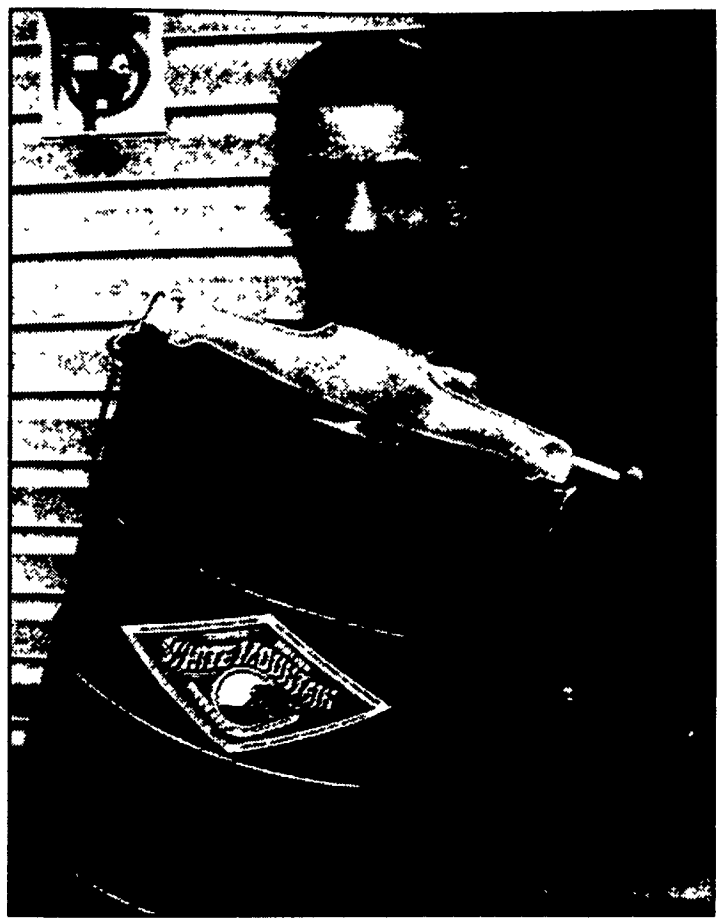
At right is one of the tent "streets" at the fair, which hosts 960 tents and 1,400 RVs and motor homes each year.

4-H'er Catherine Varner, 14, State College, prepares to enter her fourth class of the day at the Grange Fair, her first competition in the show ring. She is in the Carousel Riders 4-H Club. Annette Traband, owner of Carousel Farm, brought several 4-Hers to compete at the fair.



Judge Rick Allen, Fayette County, picked Rebecca Cloninger's "Lilac" as junior champion of the open dairy show. Rebecca is from Reeber Farm, Centre Hall. Dustin Horning, Lebanon County, stands at the halter of the reserve champion. They are joined by Ashley Bird, Centre County alternate dairy princess, and Krystal Wasson, Dairy Miss.

Freezer Winner Is Dover FFA'er



DILLSBURG (York Co.) — Brandon Altland, 16, is the proud owner of this White Mountain Ice Cream Freezer, courtesy of Lancaster Farming. Brandon, son of Dennis and Karen Altland, Dillsburg, journeyed to Penn State's Ag Progress Days in Rockspring last week for the first time with Dover FFA. Brandon, chosen from hundreds of contestants for the freezer, is a second-year Dover FFA member. He enjoyed the large mower equipment on display at Ag Progress.

Blair/Bedford Youth Make Strong Dairy Show

KRISTIN RUSSELL
Blair Co. Correspondent

MARTINSBURG (Blair Co.) — Hot and humid temperatures prevailed throughout the day of the Blair-Bedford 4-H and FFA Junior Dairy Show conducted in Martinsburg, Blair County, but the enthusiasm displayed by the exhibitors didn't wilt under the heat. Judge Chris Wood of Littlestown, served as the official for both showmanship and type. Two hundred and nine head of dairy 4-H or FFA project animals were exhibited by youth from Blair and Bedford counties.

The Blair-Bedford 4-H and FFA Junior Dairy Show has one of the strongest local Guernsey shows in the state, with many top contenders at the state level coming from this area. Winning her first grand champion and supreme champion honors this year was Kendy Gable of Bedford County. Kendy also exhibited the junior champion Guernsey, her fall yearling, Glenville Magicman Flute.

Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Holstein, Jersey, and Milking Shorthorn were also represented at the show.

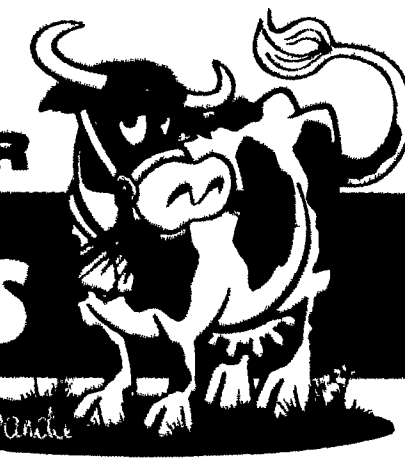
YOUR GRAZING ACRES & PROFITS WITH OUR

Premium Pasture Mixes



Our Mixes Will Improve Your Farm's Profitability

A 1997-2001 Univ. of Maryland financial summary of 24 dairy farms indicated that managed grazing systems are very profitable. Net profit per cow per year was $718 for grazing (8 farms) and $412 for confinement (16 farms). Managed grazing with our locally developed mixes means profitability!

King's GRAZING MIX
Our best selling mix Combination of perennial ryegrasses, orchardgrasses, clovers, and chicory Excellent for grazing Surplus growth makes excellent balage or haylage

New!* GREENFAST
Fast establishing high yielding mix designed for short term (3 yrs) forage fields Great for grazing, balage and haylage Excellent for renovating thin pastures and hay fields

Highland HAYGRAZING MIX
Our most drought tolerant mix Can be hayed or grazed Great to add to your grazing rotation when more summer acres are needed Should be rested 3-4 weeks between harvests and NOT mowed shorter than 3"

New!* EXT. SEASON HP
The HP stands for high palatability, and as the name implies, this mix will start earlier in the spring and shut down later in the fall, extending the grazing season It has fewer seed heads!

Barenbrug's DAIRYMASTER
This Barenbrug mix is tough but still palatable Great for dry cows and heifers and continuous grazing

New!* DAIRY PLUS
This is our most palatable mix and should make the highest milk yields - but requires the best soils It is a ryegrass, timothy and clover blend Replaces BG23 plus

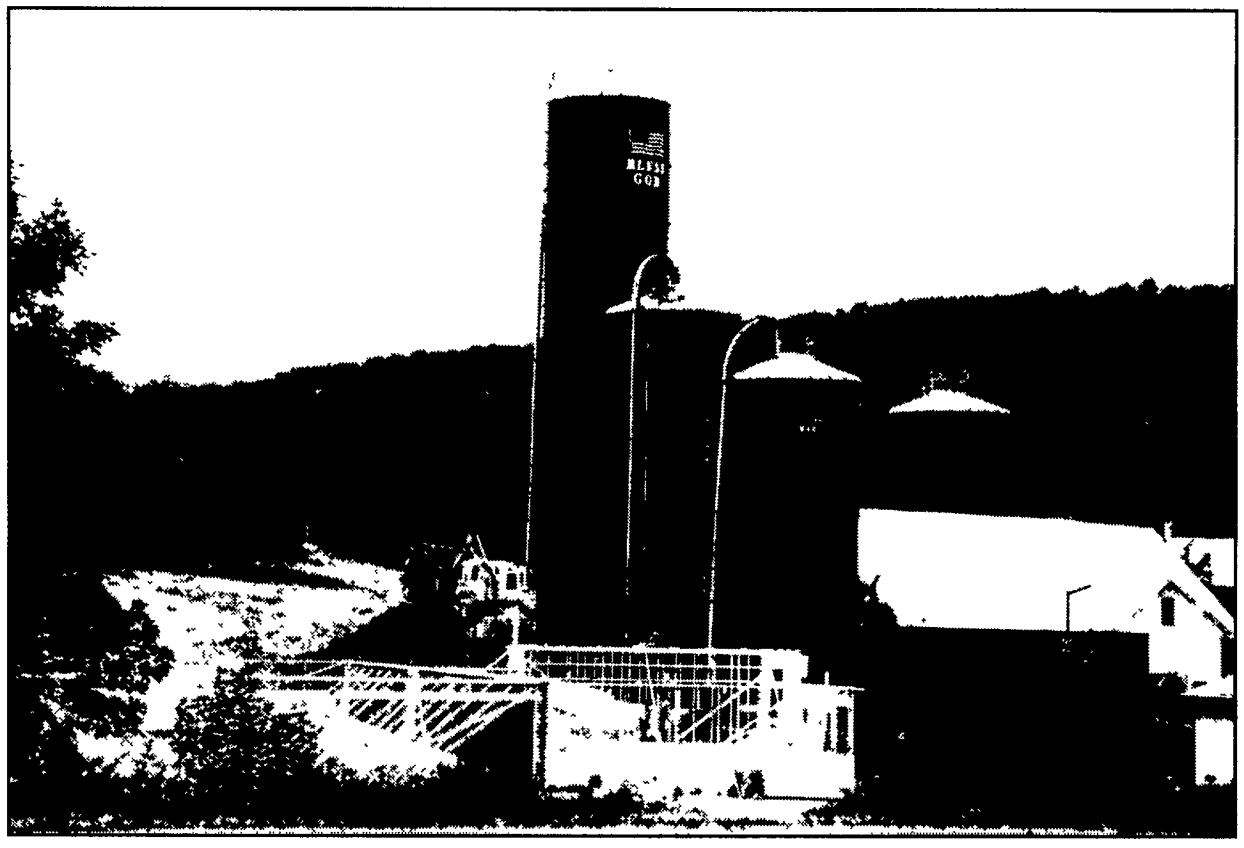
First 20x100 Harvestore® in Pennsylvania!



The Gockleys have been farming with the Harvestore System since Glenn had Penn Jersey build his first 20x50 in 1980. Since then they have added two additional Harvestores and a Slurrystore® waste management system.

Currently undergoing expansion, the Gockleys are constructing a new tie stall barn for 100 cows and a 20x100 Harvestore structure for corn silage. They plan to switch to total mixed ration feeding with 33 lbs. haylage and 23 lbs. corn silage. The herd's current production is 27,000 lbs. milk with 1026 lbs. B.F. and 826 lbs. protein.

This new, state-of-the-art "easy sort" 2,200-head swine finishing facility features a Raytec Auto Sorting Scale and Airstream's New Computer-Compatible Climate Control System

WAYPIG® AUTO SORT SCALE WEIGHS, SORTS AND STAGES PIGS AUTOMATICALLY

- User-friendly digital indicator exclusively designed for WayPig® Auto Sort Scale
- Tracks total weight, number of pigs and average weight. Capability to track the number of pigs within a preselected weight range.
- Four-point weighing system is designed for accuracy and quiet operation.
- Heavy gauge steel is powder-coated for durability. Components that are typically subject to corrosion are stainless steel with this system.
- Plenty of clearance exists under the scale. Normal amount of debris will not distort weight.
- Electronic components are protected from pigs and the elements.
- Weighs one pig at a time.
- Easy cleaning.

Automatic Sorting, Accurate Weights & Less Labor Costs

ELIMINATE SORT LOSS

- Pigs enter the scale and within seconds the accurate weight of even jittery pigs is displayed. WayPig® sorts and stages to your preset weight requirements.

CUT LABOR COSTS

- WayPig® Auto Sort Scale will perform the work of several employees. This scale offers large pen hog finishing operations relief from a labor-intensive, time-consuming job.

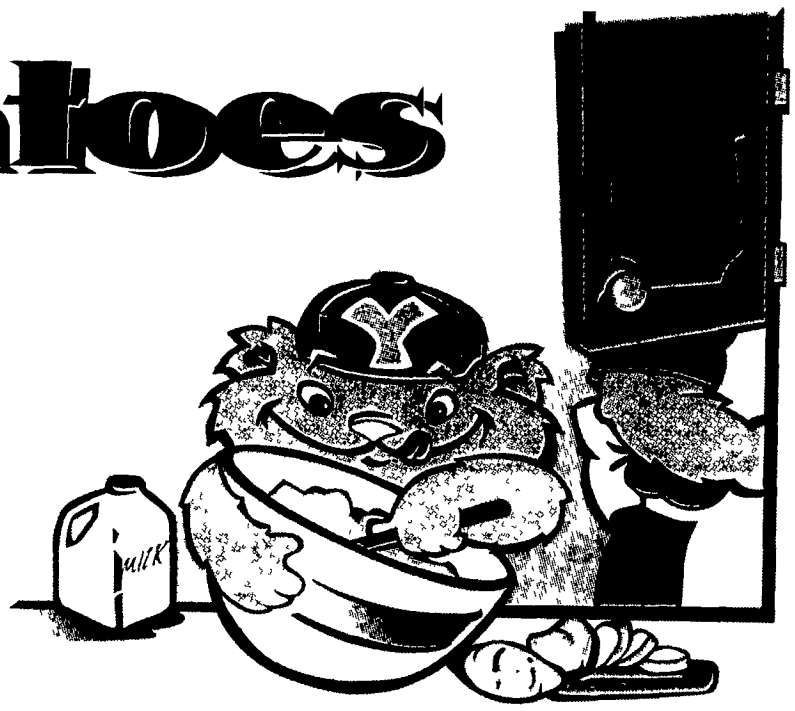
Root For Sweet Potatoes

Sweet potatoes contain virtually no fat and are low in sodium. The Center for Science in the Public Interest (CSPI) ranks the sweet potato as the #1 most nutritional vegetable, scoring significantly higher in nutrients than even spinach or broccoli.

Sweet potatoes, fresh and canned, are available year-round. As you can see from these examples, there are many creative sweet potato recipes to entice your young ones to eat their vegetables for breakfast, lunch, dinner—and even dessert!



Clockwise from top: Oatmeal-Sweet Potato Muffins, Twice-Baked Sweet Potatoes and Sweet Potato Fries

Sweet Potato Fries

These nutritious french fries are a favorite with kids.

- 4 sweet potatoes
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- Salt to taste

Preheat oven to 400°F. Cut sweet potatoes into 1/2-inch-thick lengthwise strips and toss with olive oil. Coat a baking sheet with nonstick cooking spray and arrange potatoes on baking sheets. Bake potatoes for 15–20 minutes or until golden brown on bottom. Turn potatoes over and bake about 15–20 minutes or until golden brown all over. Sprinkle with salt and serve. Makes 4–6 servings.

Creamed Double Potatoes

Mashed potatoes with flair. The sweet potatoes add nutrition, color and flavor.

- 2 pounds baking potatoes, peeled and chunked
- 1 pound sweet potatoes or 2 (15-ounce) cans sweet potatoes, drained
- 1/2 cup light margarine
- 1 cup skim milk
- Salt and pepper, to taste
- Sliced green onions, optional

In large pot, cover both types of potatoes with water and boil for 10–15 minutes or until tender. Place potatoes in bowl with margarine and milk. Beat until smooth. Season with salt and pepper and sprinkle with green onions if desired. Makes 8 servings.

Note: If using canned yams, add them at the end of the recipe; they are already precooked.

Twice-Baked Sweet Potatoes

Yummy, yummy, yummy! Here's a showpiece with the taste to match.

- 3 pounds medium sweet potatoes, unpeeled
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 2 tablespoons margarine
- 1/3 cup skim milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- Pecans, marshmallows, yellow raisins

Preheat oven to 400°F. Place potatoes on a baking sheet and cook for 1 hour or until tender. Cut a thin slice off the top of each potato. Carefully scoop pulp into a bowl, leaving shells intact. Mash pulp, stir in sugar, cinnamon, margarine, milk and vanilla, mixing until smooth. Spoon mixture into the shells and top with pecans, marshmallows and raisins. Bake at 350°F for 15 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Makes 8 servings.

Oatmeal-Sweet Potato Muffins

The crumble topping adds the finishing touch to this perfect muffin which is great for breakfast!

- 1 cup old-fashioned oatmeal
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 (15-ounce) can sweet potatoes (yams), drained and mashed or 1 cup fresh sweet potatoes, cooked and mashed
- 3/4 cup light brown sugar
- 1/3 cup canola oil
- 1/4 cup skim milk
- 1 large egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- Crumble Topping (recipe follows)

Preheat oven to 400°F. In large bowl, combine oatmeal, flour, baking powder, baking soda, cinnamon and nutmeg. Stir in sweet potatoes, brown sugar, oil, milk, egg and vanilla, just until well moistened. Fill muffin tins 3/4 full. Sprinkle with Crumble Topping. Bake 15–20 minutes. Makes 18 muffins.

Crumble Topping

- 1/4 cup old-fashioned oatmeal
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 cup light brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon light margarine, melted
- 1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring

In a bowl, mix together oatmeal, flour and sugar. With a fork, mix in margarine and vanilla until crumbly.

Heavenly Yam Delight

A wonderful dessert that doesn't take long to prepare.

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 cup plus 2/3 cup confectioners' sugar, divided
- 1/3 cup chopped pecans
- 7 tablespoons margarine
- 1 (8-ounce) package fat-free cream cheese
- 1 (8-ounce) container fat-free frozen whipped topping, thawed, divided
- 1 (29-ounce) can yams (sweet potatoes), drained or 2 cups fresh sweet potatoes, cooked, cut into chunks
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Preheat oven to 350°F. In large bowl, combine flour, 1/4 cup confectioners' sugar, pecans and margarine. Press into bottom of 13x9x2-inch baking pan. Bake 20 minutes. Set aside to cool. In mixing bowl, mix cream cheese and 2/3 cup confectioners' sugar until creamy. Fold in 3/4 cup whipped topping. Spread cream cheese mixture over cooled crust. In mixing bowl, beat sweet potatoes, sugar and cinnamon until smooth. Spread over cream cheese mixture. Top with remaining whipped topping. Refrigerate. Makes 16 servings.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

The end of August has arrived and the beginning of school. Some of our grandchildren started three weeks ago while others won't start until next month. Of course, then some will be finished sooner.

I can remember when my grade school finished in April. Most likely they felt that we were needed at home on the farm. There were no buses, and so you walked to the nearest school. That meant during all kinds of weather — snow, rain, and fierce wind storms.

The one-room schools have mostly disappeared and buses take children to consolidated schools. Here they mingle with others from city and country. We hope they learn to appreciate each other's values. As they grow older, they will have more common interests.

Recently, we attended a 50th wedding anniversary party. It was a big affair with tables and balloons all over the lawn. As it was one of our many hot days, they even had large fans outside. The flowers and plants were beautiful.

One room in the house was given over to movies of the couple's life as it progressed from marriage to lots of grandchildren. Interspersed with family gatherings were pictures of vacations all over the world. Their children from other states all gathered to help them celebrate.

Our one peach tree has again outdone itself in producing fruit. Last year we got 10 baskets of peaches and despite the dry weather the small tree gave us five baskets this year. However, the birds got to them first and pecked away on some of them. Of course, I do freeze some as we like to put them on our cereal all during the winter. And, I want to make some peach jam and not just can all of them.

116 Head Exhibited In Open Beef Show In New Jersey

AUGUSTA, N.J. The Open Beef Show of Sussex County Farm and Horse Show and the New Jersey State Fair was conducted on Aug. 2-4, in Augusta, N.J.

There were 116 head of cattle exhibited during the show. There were 37 exhibitors from New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania. C.J. Furlong of Mount Joy, Pa. judged the show, and Joseph Phillips was the Open Beef Show superintendent.

On Being a Farm Wife

(and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

Winding down. Wrapping up. Typing the loose ends. Finished.

Unofficially, that's what this Labor Day working-folks salute has evolved to be about. One last vacation trip, one last backyard party, one last picnic before shaking off the lingering laxness of summer, straightening our shoulders, putting our heads erect, and marching forward into fall.

And boy, are most of us ready. Or, to share an observation from a friend: "It's like we've been under siege."

Holding us hostage, of course, has been the seemingly endless onslaught by heat and drought, dust clouds and wildfires, high humidity and near-non-existent rainfall, low commodity prices, low crop yields, and the spectre of skimpy feed supplies for the winter.

Casualties of the siege have been pastures turned to straw, gardens shriveled up (if bugs, beetles, and grasshoppers didn't bite into them first), corn struggling to make ears, skimpy, sad hay crops, and sparse pickin's from many produce patches. How many years are tomatoes and squash scarce around here, for goodness sake?

Through it all, though, there is one constant that never changes, one absolute that never falters, one standard that can be depended upon, regardless of whatever else is thrown at us.

The weeds are still thriving.

Battling unwanted greenery is an ongoing process, dry and wet years. It's a battle waged in our yard and garden with mulch, hoes, hand-yanking, a heavy-duty hand pruner, and a faithful sidekick spray bottle filled with basic weedkiller.

But during our absence a few days early in the month, the weeks absolutely ran amuk. As if challenged to perform one final, glorious assault against the broiling heat and dryness, all the errant, the unyanked, the missed seedlings hiding under leaves of cultivated stuff, bolted into high gear. Almost overnight, weed-trees dotted the veggie patch, shaded the annuals, even established thriving colonies under the thick, shaded and moisture-sapping maple trees, where respectable plants refuse to set root.

A forest of ragweed, laden with sneeze-starting pollen, towered over the perennial border. One corner prettily abloom with roses, daylilies, and black-eyed Susans revolted into a rebel pack of lanky lambs' quarters and rampant foxtail. Mile-a-minute vines raced through the blueberries, curled like puppies at the feet of the dogwood tree and scattered off into the snowball bushes.

And pokeweed poked its rubbery stalks and wide leaves into everything. It sprang up among fern in the greenhouse and begonias on the front porch. It nestled up to the black-eyed Susans and dug its way up through thick clumps of daylilies. After knocking down a handsome, three-foot pokeweed "hunk" hanging around the zinnias, its clones popped up from the tomato patch to the chrysanthemums and took to sunning with the sunflowers.

In defense of the weeds, however, at least one variety proved to have a positive side through this brutal summer. Just about the time the first melon hills in the garden row had softball-sized fruits on them, the vines began to shrivel and die, attacked by the beetles which spread a wilt fatal to the plants. Diligent efforts in that part of the garden had kept it relatively weed-free.

Other melon plants farther along in the row, despite my efforts, spotted some thriving red-root weeds too big to pull without uprooting everything. But the rough leaves of the weed seemed to attract the melon beetles. They dined on the weeds' leaves — which appeared non the worse for wear — and left the melon vines to yield their tasty fruits.

So while Labor Day weekend represents a salute to working people, a last vacation or picnic fling, return of school buses and football season, it also signals one more thing around here.

Lifespan of our lush, lanky weeds is limited.

And they'll take the bugs with them when they go.

Back To School, Dads And Sports

When I asked one of the men in my office what he thought of when I mentioned "back to school," he immediately shouted "football!" He had played football in high school and been an avid fan when his sons had played.

While many of you may not have been high school jocks, sports have played a part in defining who you are if you grew up in the U.S.

Today, organized sports are bigger than ever. Your children will have the option of participating in some sort of sport almost from birth. For many families, "back to school" means after-school practices and Saturdays and sometimes Sundays at the fields. If you have multiple children, it can require the skill of an air traffic controller to schedule transportation, observation time and food issues revolving around these games. It can be downright exhausting! But it can also be fun.

Dads play a pivotal role in developing a healthy attitude toward sports. With the obesity epidemic that has surfaced even among America's children, no one can deny that sports are an excellent way to schedule physical activity into a day. Of course, no one has to play on two soccer teams a week to be fit. Dads have traditionally been the ones to encourage children to practice sports skills between games, tossing balls in the back yard, or shooting hoops.

Little children love this interaction with their fathers. If organized sports are not your thing, activities such as hiking or biking can also be family activities.

Participation in sports has the potential to be a negative experience, depending on the atmosphere of the program and pressure felt by the child. My coworker expressed the concern that fathers can try to relive their own experiences through their children, putting pressure on the child to excel. A child who is exposed to repeated failures and who receives criticism without useful feedback is unlikely to thrive in a sport. As children grow up, their relationship with their dads will change the role of the parent in sports.

During the preschool and elementary years, helping children develop basic skills such as running, jumping, kicking, and throwing is important. Sports should be focused on "cooperative" games involving every team member. The emphasis should be on fun, not competition. I remember the T-ball games where every player got on base and the score didn't matter.

As children grow, dads should continue to guide their children toward greater skill achievement through encouragement to practice skills or being a positive role model, some participating in sports themselves. Some dads even take on coaching. Parental involvement usually decreases in adolescence as children move onto school teams and a desire to be with their friends. Parents can still be supportive by attending sporting events and giving positive encouragement.

According to Daniel Perkins, professor of family/youth resiliency and policy at Penn State University, the primary goals of youth sports are to foster the development of general physical competence and to promote physical activity, fun, life skills, sportsmanship, and good health. Find some time in "back to school" to keep active with your kids. Dads, don't let the "soccer moms" have all the fun!

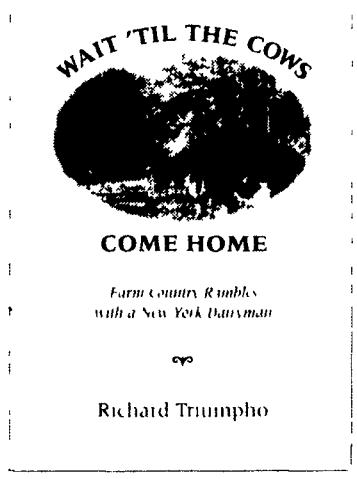
WAIT 'TIL THE COWS COME HOME, Farm Country Rambles With A New York Dairyman, by Richard Triumpho. Sunnyside Press, 2002, 288 pp., $19.95. ISBN 0-9717214-0-8



Hoard's Dairyman readers will recall Richard Triumpho's "Jottings" column, starting in 1973. Columns from 1980-1992 are collected here in this second volume (the first was NO RICHER GIFT), WAIT 'TIL THE COWS COME HOME.

I picked this collection up at the National Holstein Convention in June in Atlantic City. I spoke briefly with Triumpho.

"Jottings" helped familiarize Triumpho with dairy families in all sorts of places, and particularly New Zealand. I enjoyed, however, his enriching descriptions in all segments of the book, which takes us through the seasons, beginning with spring.

The columns speak about Triumpho's "renegade goat" experiences, nature and the beauty of the seasons, lawn mowing and horse training, cows falling into wells, favorite spring tasks, the beaver sanctuary lady, and others. I particularly enjoyed his one installment, "Oh, Beans!" about frustration and patience. He quotes W.D. Hoard: "The rule to be observed in the stable at all times is that of patience and kindness toward the animals."

There are chapters devoted to some real surprises, such as people who convert old barns to houses and later chapters on Triumpho's voyages to and experience in New Zealand and Wales.

Without a doubt, at times, this is a delightful book. Order from Sunnyside Press: include $4 for shipping and handling (New York residents include $1.40 sales tax), to Sunnyside Press, 297 Triumpho Road, St. Johnsville, NY 13452.

THE BOY WHO INVENTED TELEVISION, by Paul Schatzkin. TeamCom Books, 2002, 267 pp., $16.95. ISBN 1-928791-30-1

Who invented television? Historians are divided between two giants in their time: a Russian emigre named Vladimir Zworykin or a Mormon farm boy, as the book indicates, by the name of Philo T. Farnsworth.

This book insists it was the farm boy-turned-inventor, who created television in a laboratory in San Francisco on Sept. 7, 1927, and this is the 75th anniversary of that invention.

As a 14-year-old, Philo, in the summer of 1921, was strapped to a horse-drawn disc-harrow, cultivating a potato field row by row, "turning the soil and dreaming about television to relieve the monotony," according to THE BOY. "As the open summer sun blazed down on him, he stopped for a moment and turned around to survey the afternoon's work. In one vivid moment, everything he had been thinking about and studying synthesized in novel way, and a daring idea crystallized in this boy's brain. As he surveyed the field he had plowed one row at a time, he suddenly imagined trapping light in an empty jar and transmitting it one line at a time on a magnetically deflected beam of electrons" (page 17).

Zworykin, however, according to the book, basically applied for a patent in 1923 for an idea that could have amounted to television — had it worked. A patent interference ruling in 1934, however, noted the device was "inoperative." Zworykin actually may have gotten his ideas for further success with television from a meeting with Farnsworth. The book makes them at least co-inventors: yet the patent #1,773,980 was issued in August 1930 for Farnsworth's successful work.

Farnsworth had even grander ideas about other inventions, too, that could radically change the world. They include an idea for controlled fusion. "As the concept of electronic television had arrived on a potato field in the summer of 1921, a practical approach to fusion energy arrived in a '49 Cadillac on a Great Plains highway, somewhere between Indiana and Utah, in the summer of 1953" (page 214).

Schatzkin has made it a lifetime venture, studying the famous inventor, and interviewed family and associates to create this book. While I like to see more about the personality of famous inventors in a biography, this book took 25 years to finish, and is a great testament to a genius. Schatzkin notes that as the 75th anniversary of the first TV transmission approaches, he hopes that "this volume, and all the years that have gone into its making, will add some texture and meaning to that celebration."

THE LOG HOME BOOK, by Cindy Teipner-Thiede and Arthur Thiede, with photographs by Jonathan Stoke and Cindy Teipner-Thiede. Gibbs Smith Publisher, 1993, 222 pp., $29.95. ISBN 0-87905-671-1

Log homes are always in fashion, it seems, and you haven't seen them all until you've read THE LOG HOME BOOK, which has undergone a few printings already.

The book itself, chockfull of four-color photographs of custom log homes throughout the country, makes an excellent coffee-table book in its own right. Visitors can page through this to see the latest.

These houses are exquisite. I didn't think it possible to live this good. Good living can be done without two-by-four frame construction, and artists can be imbued with all sorts of muse and inspiration. The book details houses from East to West and shows how regions can incorporate lore into their design. Not only houses, but interior decorating techniques are a big highlight of this beautiful book.

Chester County Farm Is Home For National Guernsey Queen

Sollenberger Family Shows That Dreams Really Do Come True

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

SPRING CITY (Chester Co.) — Julie Sollenberger has acquired numerous tiaras with local, state, and national commodity titles. People have sometimes remarked that she is a professional queen who jumps from one title to the next.

"But that isn't true. I was shot down several times," Julie said of running for dairy princess, Jersey queen, and other agricultural-related titles. "But my mom kept telling me to keep trying."

Following Mom's advice paid off. Named the National Guernsey Queen at the California convention recently, Julie previously was Pennsylvania Fair Queen in addition to achieving several county titles.

Mom wasn't offering glib advice when she told Julie to keep trying. Her mother Holly has doggedly pursued her own dream to own a dairy herd. Holly, who grew up on a dairy farm, is passionate about cows. But it is no easy feat to acquire a farm in Chester County, where development is booming.

For many years each day, Holly drove four miles to her parents' (Clyde and Alta Shive's) farm to milk cows.

"It worked out well when the children were little. My mother kept my children while I milked, so she got to spend time with her grandchildren, and I got a break from the kids while I spent time with the cows," Holly said.

That ended in 1995 when Holly's dad fell down a hay shoot and was airlifted to the hospital. His severe injuries, from which he later recovered, forced them to sell the herd, and Holly was without her beloved cows to milk.

"We did keep all our show animals," Julie said. The family which includes Kevin, 16; Colin, 13; and Kyle, 8 — show about 25 cows in eight local fairs.

Holly's husband Dave did not grow up on a farm, but he was supportive of Holly's dream.

Holly wanted her own herd so badly that the Sollenbergers decided to build a milking facility on their 30-acre property surrounded by housing development. While the building was being erected, the heifers and dry cows calved, so Holly began milking three cows in the basement of their house, and later the garage.

"We kept the cows in pasture, and it took 45 minutes to round three of them up and milk them," Holly said.

Today the Sollenbergers milk 35 cows and have a new barn with pipeline and gutter cleaner.

"I am a progressive farmer," Holly said about the facility's evolving status.

The herd includes Guernseys, Jerseys, Holsteins, and Linebacks. Each one is named and pampered excessively.

"I guess I'm not a good manager because I don't cull," Holly said. "I keep everything because I'm so attached to each one."

"We have an unusual setup," Holly said. "I'm the one in charge of the dairy. My husband works fulltime off the farm and farms the ground."

In addition to the Sollenberger's 30 acres, they rent an additional 150 acres to raise crops.

Holly's passion for cows is shared with her children.

"I remember getting my first calf when I was four years old," Julie said. "We named her 'Mine,' because I was so proud of her that I was always pointing at her and saying, 'Mine.'"

Julie said, "I'm proud to be the fourth generation to milk cows. The family's dairy operation is French Creek Farm, located 45 minutes from Philadelphia.

During the National Guernsey Convention, Julie was actually under the scrutiny of two different set of judges: one for the queen contest and the other for the public speaking contest.

She answered the impromptu question that inquired what political issue is facing dairy farmers and what can be done to correct it. Julie discussed how development is overtaking her area and the importance of contacting politicians to make people aware of the importance of the dairy industry.

Not only was she named princess, but also first in the senior division of the national public speaking contest. Julie based her speech on her favorite cow, Audrey, named grand champion at 4-H roundup and other local fairs during her heyday.

"Audrey was my first 4-H calf and died last October of old age. I compared Audrey's life to the traits of Guernseys," she said.

Julie's speech had an unexpected response. Many of the audience wiped tears from their eyes when she told how her cow walked beneath a tree on a nice October day and died.

After the coronation, several older men cried as they told her about a special calf they had raised.

"It seems everyone could relate to my speech, because everyone who has cows has a special place in their heart reserved for one," Julie said.

Julie said that she wasn't nervous when presenting her 7-8 minute speech. She has never taken a public speaking class but is signed up to take one in her upcoming college semester.

"I don't get nervous," Julie said.

Her mom said, "I get nervous for her. When she gets up to speak, I get so nervous, my lips quiver and my stomach gets upset."

"I always dreamed of becoming National Guernsey Queen ever since I was little, but I didn't think it would really happen," Julie said. She has attended the national convention since she was eight years old.

During her showing career, Julie said that she lived through winning and losing streaks. "But I never considered giving up raising them."

She did have that option. When she entered high school, Julie had to choose whether to continue band or ag classes.

"I picked my path," Julie said of choosing agriculture.

A junior majoring in ag business at Delaware Valley College has been a fantastic experience for her.

She went to Mexico when she participated in the Export for Scholars Program.

Julie found it incredible to see how much planning and background work needs to be done for international trade. She saw firsthand how language and cultural barriers can affect discussions.

She was also amazed to see a 27,000 cow dairy operation in Mexico City.

"It was really a city of cows, where they had convenient stores within the farm facility," she said.

Julie said she went to Penn State during her freshman year but transferred to Del Val because she prefers smaller classes where the advisers know everyone and professors work closely with students.

At Del Val, she is a Presidential Diplomat, New Student Ambassador, and a member of the Dairy Society Club and the National Ag Marketing Club.

Julie wasn't the only member of her family competing at the National Guernsey Youth Convention where she was crowned National Guernsey Queen. Her brothers Kevin and Colin participated in the Quiz Bowl Contest, where Colin placed first in junior competition and Kevin second in the senior division.

Because they have a small operation, someone had to remain behind to milk the cows and keep things running smoothly. Mom and dad remained at home, but they didn't miss the exciting moment of hearing their daughter named National Queen. Kevin used a cell phone to dial home during the final moments of the queen competition so that his parents could hear the announcement and cheer.

The road to queen was not without detours. The first year Julie tried for the Kimberton Fair Queen title, she was named alternate. The following year, she competed again. Using the same speech, she achieved the fair title, which qualified her to compete for the state title.

"I didn't think I had a chance, but I set goals each day at the state competition in Hershey," Julie said.

One of these goals was inspired by an elderly board member who said that he could never hear the county queens introduce themselves because they didn't speak loud enough.

"My goal was to speak loud enough so that he and the 800 people attending could hear me," Julie said.

She did.

Another goal was to be named one of the top five finalists.

"When they called my name as a finalist, I was content. I could have gone home then and been perfectly satisfied," Julie said.

Instead she answered the impromptu question with poise and was selected as state queen.

Julie is active in the Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders' Association and was named Outstanding Girl in 1995, and has participated in numerous dairy bowl teams.

This summer, Julie worked as an intern with the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Animal Health. She said the internship offered a good learning experience to see all aspects of fair inspection and testing poultry for avian influenza and West Nile Virus.

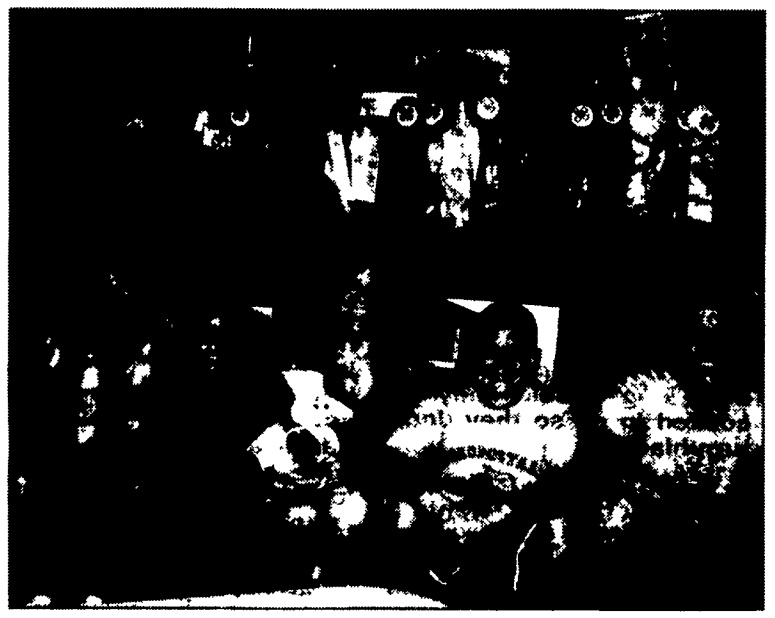
After college graduation, Julie plans to attend law school to study ag or environmental law.

Her dreams also include owning her own small dairy farm, eventually.

"I want enough Guernseys to show and to have (my) kids involved in 4-H, but I don't want it (the farm) to overtake my life — I also want a career," Julie said.

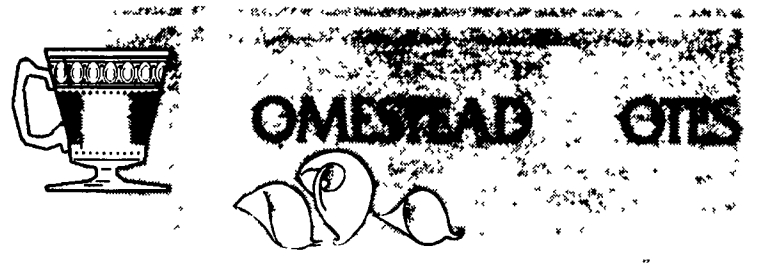
"Dreams do come true," her mother said. "I'm living proof."

"I'm not just saying Guernseys are my favorite because I'm the National Guernsey Queen, they really are," said Julie Sollenberger, who helps with the family's mixed herd that includes Holsteins, Jerseys, and Linebacks in addition to Guernseys.



Showing is a family affair for National Guernsey Queen Julie Sollenberger, holding a stuffed cow; Her mom, left; and brothers, Kyle, 8; Colin, 13; and Kevin, 16. Notice the ribbons the family has accumulated (attached to the fireplace mantel) in their participation at eight local fairs.

National Guernsey Queen Julie Sollenberger, left, walks down the lane of their French Creek Farm with her mother, Holly. Julie said her mother is an outstanding example of persevering even when things don't go as planned. Her mother counters, "Dreams really do come true. Just look at Julie."



If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a self-addressed stamped envelope. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Check your recipe to make sure you copy the right amounts and complete instructions for making the recipe. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, but cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address. You may also e-mail questions and answers to LGOOD.EPH@LNPNEWS.COM

QUESTION — Roxanne Bonifay, Salem, N.J., is looking for a very old recipe called Spanish bar cake, which is a heavy spice cake with raisins.

QUESTION — A reader from Lebanon wants a recipe for pizza sauce that tastes like the Ragu brand.

QUESTION — Wayne Erb, Mount Joy, wants to know how to freeze potatoes for French fries, and how long should they be cooked in oil so they don't turn black?

QUESTION — Malinda Renno, Fort Royal, wants a recipe for barbecued beans, which appeared in the Farm Journal sometime during the 1960s. She lost the recipe, but recalls that it had meatballs and a very good barbecue flavor.

QUESTION — Penny Haber from Bucks County writes that for several years she has used a Victoria Squeezo Strainer to prepare her tomatoes for canning. She has also tried to use it to prepare strawberries and raspberries for jelly making but the proportions have turned out wrong. She would appreciate if readers who have successfully prepared fruit this way send instructions and the proportions of sugar, fruit pectin, and fruit they used.

QUESTION — Karen Ramseur, Williamstown, N.J., writes that she attended the Kutztown Pennsylvania German Festival recently. A Pennsylvania German cooking presentation demonstrated drying corn on a double-walled pan with a funnel adaptor at one end to add water. She also attended the country auction featured at the festival and brought a vegetable dryer. Anyone have recipes to instruct her how to dry vegetables? Karen also thanks readers who sent in "wonderful" lemon jelly and cornbread recipes in answer to her requests.

QUESTION — Gail Silveira would like a recipe for a corn, shrimp soup, which she recalls had been printed in a previous issue. Anyone have the recipe to which she is referring?

QUESTION — Eva Burrell, Glen Gardner, N.J., wants to know how to make filet of beef on the grill by using wet newspapers and encasing meat in a paste made with kosher salt and water. Years ago, the Burrells used this method but can't remember exactly how it was done or the time required to cook per pound. This made the best filet of beef Eva has ever tasted and she would like to use it for several cookouts.

QUESTION — Dave Wilder, Gladwyne, grows lingonberries in Berks County. He wants to know uses for this Old World fruit. The Latin name, Wilder writes, is Vacciniam vitis-idaea. Native varieties are sometimes called cowberry.

ANSWER — Sue Hurley, Newville, requested recipes to make different kinds of instant powdered tea mixes, such as raspberry and peach. Thanks to Elizabeth Keener, Chambersburg, for sending this recipe she thought Sue might enjoy. Elizabeth writes that she has been making this tea for almost 36 years of her marriage and could not begin to estimate how many gallons of it her family has drank. It is very thirst-quenching and especially welcomed during haying. It also makes a nice punch to serve at Christmas; She makes an ice ring of the cranberry tea and pieces of fruit to float in a punch bowl, which is quite attractive. Most times she uses decaffeinated tea bags.

The Keener's children took this recipe to Penn State college, the recipe has since moved to Pittsburgh with the family of their son-in-law, and to Long Island with the family of their daughter-in-law. They call it Pennsylvania Punch.

Shepherd's Ridge Farm Cranberry Tea

Bring 2 cups water to a boil either on stove or in microwave. (Elizabeth uses a glass one-quart measure in the microwave). Add 4 tea bags and allow to steep for 5 minutes. Remove tea bags and add ½ cup sugar or ½ cup Splenda. Stir to dissolve. Add 2 cups ice water or ice cubes to equal one quart tea.

Pour tea into pitcher or jug. Add 2 cups cranberry juice, ½ cup orange juice, and ⅓ cup lemon juice. Yields about 7 cups cranberry tea. Serve chilled.

ANSWER — A reader from Greencastle wrote that many years ago her grandmother made pan cake using corn meal. The cakes were soft and crunchy. The reader said her experiments with making corn meal pan cakes turn out thick like pancakes. She would like thin-crunchy ones. Thanks to Joanne Blokyeyl for sending a recipe that she writes her father was very fond of eating, and may be what the Greencastle reader is looking for.

Johnny Cakes

Beat 1 egg well. Stir in 2 cups cornmeal, 1 teaspoon salt, and 1¼-1½ cups milk. Drop spoonfuls of batter onto a well-greased hot griddle and fry to a golden brown on each side.

Stir batter occasionally to keep well mixed. Serve hot with butter. Enjoy.

Thanks to Verna Hess, New Providence, for sending another recipe which she writes makes very thin hot cakes.

Corn Meal Pancakes

Mix:
¾ cup corn meal
¾ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt

Mixture will be very thin. Stir so there are no lumps and pour into hot cast iron skillet to which has been added a bit of oil. Brown on both sides.

Stir between each pouring and add a little milk when mixture gets too thick.

Serve with favorite syrup. Verna's family prefers King Syrup.

ANSWER — Thanks to Elizabeth Keener, Chambersburg, for sending this recipe requested by a Perry County reader. Elizabeth, who makes several batches of this every summer, writes that this recipe belonged to her grandmother. She tried chopping the vegetables in a food processor but did not like the texture. Because grinding is a rather juicy process, Elizabeth does the job outside. The relish can be used on hamburgers, hot dogs, Sloppy Joes, ham, tuna, or egg salads. Mixed with mayonnaise, it makes a delicious tartar sauce for fish. Combine relish with equal parts of ketchup and mayonnaise to make a very good-tasting Thousand Island dressing.

Green Tomato Relish

Grind together:
½ peck green tomatoes
½ head cabbage
3 green bell peppers
3 red bell peppers
3 onions

Mix ½ cup salt into vegetables. Let drain overnight in a colander or cheesecloth bag. Discard juice.

Add the following to vegetables and put ingredients into a large kettle:
1½ quarts cider vinegar
4 cups sugar
1 tablespoon mustard seed
2 teaspoons whole cloves tied into a bit of cloth

Bring to a boil and cook 20 minutes. Ladle into sterile jars and seal with sterile lids. Yields 8 pints.

Note: To can using the open kettle method, put clean jars into oven and set the temperature for 225 degrees, heating jars for 20 minutes. Lids are kept simmering in a pan of water on the stove. Remove the jars from the oven and from the pan using tongs. Wipe the rim of the jar with a clean cloth before putting lid on jar. Make certain that jar rings are smooth inside, not rusted or worn, so that they can be screwed on completely. Allow jars to cool 24 hours before removing rings.

ANSWER — Mrs. Thomas Van Dzuna, Portage, requested a recipe for sweet sausage. Elizabeth Keener, Chambersburg, writes that she assumes she means Pennsylvania German sausage.

Pennsylvania German Sausage

For every 1 pound cubed pork, add the following:
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper

Mix the seasonings thoroughly with the pork and grind coarsely. Stuff into casings, make patties or freeze in batches. Pork sausage does not keep well frozen, but will keep better and for a longer time it a layer of water is poured over the sausage or around the links before it is frozen. Her mother-in-law suggested this method, and it does work. The other option is to can the sausage in a pressure canner.

In Hot Weather, Remind Children To Drink Water

COLLEGEVILLE (Montgomery Co.) — Children often overlook one of the most plentiful, most refreshing and most needed beverage — water — said Paula Peters, K-State research and extension children's nutrition specialist.

Water is especially important during warm weather months when children can easily become distracted by play, ignore their thirst, and become dehydrated, she said.

The human body is approximately 60 percent water. Water transports oxygen and essential nutrients to all parts of the body and also carries and excretes waste products.

It provides the medium in which the body's chemical reactions can occur; protects organs; lubricates joints; and regulates body temperature. Regulating temperature is especially important during summer months, Peters said.

"Young children don't tolerate heat as well as adults do. They actually generate more heat relative to their body size and they lose more water through sweating because they have more skin surface relative to their body size. They usually do not instinctively drink enough to replace lost fluids, so they need a parent or care giver's help," she said.

How much water a child needs depends on their size and activity level. Remember that even cool and refreshing exercise, such as swimming, can cause the body to sweat and lose water. To help keep children from becoming dehydrated children should be offered 10-14 ounces of cool or cold water one to two hours before play and offer it again 10-15 minutes after play. Water breaks should be every 15 minutes or so and about four ounces or half a cup.

Plain, cold water is preferred for fluid replacement because water is quickly absorbed by the body. Personalized water bottles can help make the beverage breaks appealing to children. The see-through bottles also can help parents gauge how much water their child is drinking, Peters said.

Flavored beverages can be used to supplement fluid replacement, but only if they have a sugar concentration of six to eight percent or less (15 to 18 grams of carbohydrate per eight ounces). Sports drinks fit this guideline; fruit juices and other sugar-flavored drinks may need to be diluted with an equal amount of water. Diluting concentrated beverages allows them to be absorbed more quickly.

Iced tea and soft drinks that contain caffeine, which acts as a diuretic, can cause the body to lose fluids. Bubbly carbonated soft drinks, which also may have a high sugar content, can upset children's stomachs, she said.

One of the problems parents face is the fact that children may not think they need to drink as much water as they need. This is especially true of teens, who can lose track of time during ball practice or an extra-inning game. One way to check fluid needs is to weigh young athletes before and after practice or a game. For each pound lost, drinking two cups of fluid is recommended, Peters said.

How can a parent tell if a child is dehydrated?

Early signs of dehydration include a decreased frequency of urination; dark, concentrated urine (when well-hydrated, urine should be a pale yellow); and a coated tongue. As dehydration increases, a child may feel nauseous; have muscle cramps or pain; clammy skin and/or skill that stays compressed when pinched; sunken eyes and a throbbing heart. If parents or other adults observe such symptoms, Peters encourages them to seek medical advice promptly.

Festival Promises Fun, Adventure

GEIGERTOWN (Berks Co.) — History will come alive Sept. 6-8 during the 26th annual Hay Creek Festival.

Your journey into the past begins as you cross the footbridge over Hay Creek and enter the secluded iron plantation of Historic Joanna Furnace, three miles north of Morgantown. Somewhere along this journey the worries of this world will simply fade.

Some refer to Hay Creek as a small festival, but it has more to offer than any festival of its kind. Men and women alike enjoy the authentic early American crafts demonstrations, the Olde Tyme music at Bull's Stage, and the fascinating history of Joanna Furnace and exhibits from the past displayed in the charcoal barn on the hill. The restoration of the furnace will be very evident this year with recently restored walls of the Casting House section of the historic complex.

The Civil War Encampment has expanded tremendously over the years with reenactments taking place daily, and children have great fun and learn about our heritage with all the Hands-On-Activities located throughout the festival.

The home craft marketplace is always a favorite place to start your Christmas shopping with a wide selection of contemporary juried crafts. And, the Mechanicl Technology Exhibit area has all the mechanical wonders from years gone by, with special exhibits in the new Mechanical Technology Building. Be sure to take a look at all the beautifully restored antique cars and tractors as they parade around the festival grounds.

Festival gates open 7 a.m. Main attractions are 10 a.m.-5 p.m. The festival includes free parking and shuttle. Admission is Friday, $5; Saturday and Sunday, $7; and children under 12 are free. Visit www.haycreek.org for extensive details or call (610) 286-0388.

Donations Requested For Chester County 4-H Benefit Auction

HONEY BROOK (Chester Co.) — A benefit auction will be conducted on Saturday, Sept. 28 at the Romano 4-H Center, Route 322, Honey Brook.

Organizers are asking for donations of handmade items, farm products, antiques, gift certificates, gift baskets, collectibles, artwork, etc. The silent auction will begin at 3 p.m and the live auction at 5 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

All donations and questions can be directed to Tom and Nancy Marsh, (610) 273-3478; (610) 273-9858 (fax) or to Penn State Cooperative Extension, Pat Taws or Laurie Szoke, at (610) 696-3500; (610) 696-4831 (fax).

Juan Avila, singer-song writer from New York City will appear with 4-H youth members of the "Somos Sin Fronteras/We Are Without boundaries Voices." This group will perform at 3:30 p.m and at 4:30 p.m at the Romano 4-H Center, located on Route 322, south of Honey Brook and north of Downingtown.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Cumberland County 4-H Dairy Club

The Cumberland County 4-H Dairy Club conducted their July meeting at Jim and Ann Kulick's house. Aaron Corman opened the meeting. Madison Miller led the American Pledge and Holly Lemming led the 4-H Pledge.

Roll call was answered with how many animals you plan to show at the Cumberland County 4-H Dairy Roundup. Brian Nailor read the minutes from the last meeting and they were approved as read. Greg Hammond gave the treasurer's report and were approved as read.

John Ocker talked about the Shippensburg Fair and the district show and county roundup. Kathy Walton handed out the club members certificates for completion of the ethics program.

Demonstrations were given by Melissa Detman, Lifecycle of a Tick; Tori Fuller, Jersey cattle; and Janel Zinn, the dairy princess program.

The club will not have a meeting in August because of the county roundup Aug. 3 at the Shippensburg Fairgrounds. There will be a family picnic with games on Friday night at 7:30. The next meeting will be Sept. 9.

Cumberland County 4-H Horse And Pony Club

The last meeting of the Cumberland County 4-H light horse and pony club took place July 24 at Hemp's horse farm, on polo.

The meeting which was run by leader Deb McLaughlin and junior leader's Mary Strasbaugh and Kristen Egolf was on the basics of the game of polo. Following the demonstration given by Max Hemp Jr., the floor was then opened up for any questions the members had for him.

The meeting was then called to order by Club President Mary Strasbaugh. The American pledge was led by Page Michaud and the 4-H pledge by Jessica Fabick. Carrie McLaughlin gave the secretary's report and Kristen Egolf gave the treasurer's report. Mindy Williams did the roll call.

Under new business the club recognized all the members who would be going to districts Aug. 27

Sandy Long, club supervisor, reminded drill team members of their upcoming performances at the Shippensburg Fair and she encouraged all members with production horses to be getting ready for the show on Aug. 29.

Deb McLaughlin encouraged all junior leaders to help at the farm and safety camp, and also needed any club members interested in scooping ice cream at the Huntsdale Fair to see her by the end of the night.

The club's next meeting will be Sept. 25 at 7 p.m. in the Trinity Fellowship Center located in Walnut Bottom.

Six Cumberland County 4-H Horse And Pony Club Members Make It To States

The 4-H District IV horse show hosted by the Lebanon County 4-H extension, took place Aug. 17 at the Lebanon area fairgrounds.

Cumberland County 4-H horse and pony club had 26 members competing in the show. Of the 22, six will go on to represent the county at the state show in Harrisburg in October.

Those members are: Kristen Egolf, Carlisle; Alina Lebo, Carlisle; Trevor Long, Carlise Springs; Carrie McLaughlin, Huntsdale; Michelle Thomas, Carlise; and Danyelle Tosten, Shippensburg.

York County Central Dairy 4-H Club

The Central Dairy 4-H Club met May 20 at the 4-H Center to work on their community service projects. The members, leaders and parents split up into groups to plant flowers, pull weeds and to place new mulch around the flowerbeds.

Afterwards, members met briefly at the Exhibition Building for a short meeting. Cory and Amanda Thompson gave their demonstrations, and discussed future meetings and activities. Cindy Johnson handed out the entry forms and information for the Shippensburg district show to be conducted on July 31 and Aug. 1.

Getting 'Complete' To Compete At E-Town

Doug Musser, 11, and Richard Musser, 16, Mount Joy, can't lose their 4-H projects, with the animals' neon green jackets. The boys' mother, who made the jackets, used what was available — fabric from the Mussers' aunt's attic.

Warm days make for a little competition at the water bucket, as demonstrated by these Herefords.

From left, siblings Celina, 10, Alex, 8, and Austin, 8, Nissley, Bainbridge, along with Kenzie Slack, 10, Bainbridge, stop to pose for the camera as they take their sheep out for a short walk before the show starts.

Chad Newcomer, 12, Mount Joy, lets his newly washed lamb have a chance at the feed trough, since the animal missed feeding time to get a bath. Newcomer brought two sheep to compete in the fairs 200-head sheep show.

Steve Spayd shows his son Derek the finer points of fitting with their ram Dodge. Derek, although he has been showing since he was two years old with the help of his father, is now learning to exhibit sheep on his own. They have registered Shropshires at the familys Hemlock Hollow Farm, Mount Joy.

A dairy beef competitor prepares to enter the ring.

Jumper looks on, ears up, as Jenna Moser, 10, Philadelphia, washes the lamb. Moser has been showing for three years and has exhibited pigs and sheep.

Plainfield Farmers' Fair Posts Swine, Beef Results

DEANNA CUNFER
Carbon Co. Correspondent

BANGOR (Northampton Co.) — Daryl Bomgardner, Selinsgrove judged the 4-H swine and open beef shows recently conducted during the Plainfield Farmers' Fair, Bangor. Bomgardner, a Penn State graduate where he was a member of the livestock judging team, is a sales representative for Hoober Equipment Inc.

In reviewing the contestants of the 4-H swine fitting and showmanship contests Bomgardner said there were several things he was looking for. When judging a showmanship class he said he felt the two most important things he looks for are: first, keep the hog between you and the judge, and secondly, he wants to see eye contact between the exhibitor and the judge. With the recent changes in fitting 4-H animals, Bomgardner said it seems the "clean and dry" policy is now the acceptable method in preparing your market swine for show. However, he stressed, "No one is opposed to using water" and after the show he took time to demonstrate how the use of water can improve the appearance of colored pigs during competition.

For his champion showman Bomgardner selected Nicole Kondziela, Moore Township. Described as a smooth and calm showman, Kondziela first won the senior showmanship class. Laura DeWalt, Easton, winner of the junior showmanship class, was then awarded the reserve champion showman ribbon. Kondziela will attend Green Mountain College this fall planning to major in education.

During the fitting competition Kondziela again topped the senior class moving on to be named the champion fitter. Reserve fitter honors went to Josh Bauman, winner of the junior fitting class.

Moving on to the weight classes, Bomgardner said he was looking for a big framed, heavy muscled and lean animal as his choice for champion. He found exactly that as he selected the 234-pound Hampshire entry of first year member, Kelly Hower, describing the champion as being the deepest in quality of the heavyweight class, heavy muscled and widest based, big framed and lean.

Later that afternoon, Bomgardner judged the open beef show. In the market steer competition, the 1,235-pound Angus based entry of Gwen Wagner named Wyatt was tapped as the champion market steer. Bomgardner described the winning entry of Wagner as being square and bold.

Plainfield Farmers' Fair queen, Jennifer Hower, 17, of Bethlehem then led her 1,345-pound Angus steer, Rusty, into the reserve championship spot. Later in the open beef breeding competition, the junior yearling heifer, Just Enuff Circle A Sabrina, the March 2001 daughter of Circle A 2000 Plus and Wakefield Scaara Sarah 818, exhibited by Hower was named the champion Angus female of the show and later the reserve overall female.

Champion Simmental heifer and the champion overall female title went to Strawberry, the Nov. 2000 senior yearling entry, owned by Jesse Poliskiewicz, 19, Bangor. Poliskiewicz is a freshman at East Stroudsburg University as a criminal justice major.

Reserve champion Simmental honors went to Elena Poliskiewicz with her summer yearling heifer entry. Elena, 11, a sixth grade student at DeFranco Elementary, also received the champion cow/calf award for her 2-year-old cow, Snickers, with a Feb. calf at side sired by Power Stroke.

In the showmanship competition of the open beef show Bomgardner selected Wagner as his champion showman with Hower following in the reserve champion showman position.

Shown is champion market hog of 4-H Swine Show exhibited by Kelly Hower. Also shown is Daryl Bomgardner, judge of the event at Plainfield Farmers' Fair.

New Equine Show Arena For Frederick Fair

FREDERICK, Md. — Horse shows and special events at the 2002 Great Frederick Fair will be featured in a new outdoor Equine Show Arena at this year's 140th annual county event, Sept. 13-21.

"We are very proud of the new arena that has been built in time for this year's fair," said J.R. Ramsburg Jr., president of the fair's board of managers. "But we could not have gotten this monumental project done without the help and assistance of many area individuals, businesses and supporters who underwrote the arena's cost."

Sponsors of the project are Concrete General (Carl and Norma Miller), Darling and Daughters, P.H. Drayer Inc., Eastern Materials, LaFarge, Promiseland Feed and Seed, Sandy Spring Bank and Yarnell Wastler Inc. "These are the ones who really made this arena become a reality," Ramsburg added.

Kicking off the fair's equine events will be the 4-H English horse and pony show at 9 a.m., Saturday, Sept. 14.

The draft horse and mule show, a long-time favorite among spectators and participants at the fair, gets under way in the new arena at 8:30 a.m., Sunday, Sept. 15. A ribbon cutting for the arena will be at 12:30 p.m. on Sunday as part of the draft horse and mule show. The Maryland Capital Park Police equine colorguard will make a special appearance during the ribbon cutting ceremony.

Sunday's show will be judged by Chip Lawrence of North Carolina and Jennifer Biddle of Pennsylvania. The daylong show will feature halter classes as well as the popular antique farm implement class, the hitch and cart classes. Halter classes are for exhibitors with registered Belgians, Clydesdales, Percherons or Shire, Suffolks, geldings and unregistered mares. Judging is based on the animal's conformation and animal condition.

"The draft horse and mule show continues to be a popular event at The Great Frederick Fair," said Ramsburg. "The halter classes are certainly educational because this is where the public can learn how these animals are supposed to look and what they have been bred for."

The hitch and cart classes are the entertaining portion of the show, both for the exhibitor and the spectators. "This is where the public can see how these exhibitors have trained these horses and mules to work together in team hitches and pull carts and antique farm equipment," Ramsburg said. "It's a great example of how farm work used to be done."

On Wednesday, Sept. 18, is the Old Fashion Day Parade of horse drawn buggies, carriages and carts starting at 2:30 p.m. in front of the grandstand.

Rounding out the week's horse events will be the 4-H Western Horse and Pony Show at 9 a.m., Sunday, Sept. 22.

Top Purebred Boars And Gilts Bring Record Prices

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. — For the second year in a row, Louisville, Ky., proved to be a profitable location for the Summer Type Conference as another world record was broken July 6.

The grand champion Duroc boar, exhibited by Kyle Riggs, Anderson, Ind., sold for $145,000 to Top Cut Showpig Sires, Hollansburg, Ohio. This boar, farrowed Jan. 1, 2002, was sired by BAD0 Red Crush 4-4.

Steve Malcolm and Family, Huntertown, Ind., exhibited the reserve champion Duroc boar, a son of JRE0 VIP 19-4. This boar sold to R.N. Perry and Family, Bethel, Mo., for $1,200.

Leon and Kent McLemore, Ninnekah, Okla., exhibited the second top-selling Duroc boar and sold him to Mid-Ohio Genetics, Bucyrus, Ohio, for $75,000. The 21 boars sold for a total of $253,125, averaging $12,053 each.

Amanda Froedge, Crawfordsville, Ind., exhibited the grand champion and top-selling Duroc gilt. This gilt, sired by BAD1 Select Move 64-1, was named reserve champion Duroc gilt in the junior show earlier in the week. She sold for $9,500 to Steve Malcolm and Family.

Clayton Murphy, New Paris, Ohio, sold his reserve champion Duroc gilt to Justin Whitefield, Paoli, Okla., for $2,300.

Daniel Hendrickson, Farmland, Ind., exhibited the second top-selling gilt and sold her to Robin Ridge Farms, Clay City, Ind., for $3.000.

The set of 40 gilts brought in a total of $28,900 and averaged $722.

The grand champion Hampshire boar topped the Hampshire sale, bringing in $130,000. This boar, sired by GMW1 Big N Bold 4-5, was exhibited by George and Mike Watson, Mooresville, Ind., and sold to Mid-Ohio Genetics.

RW Genetics, Palmyra, Neb., exhibited the reserve champion Hampshire boar and sold him to Shaffer's Goldrush, Albany, Ind., for $5,000.

The 19 Hampshire boars brought in a total of $197,775, averaging $10,409

Maddox Hampshires, Custer, Okla., won grand champion Hampshire gilt honors with their SNMH0 Wallstreet 18-9 daughter. This gilt sold for $1,800 to the Rule family, Michigantown, Ind.

Cailyn and Payton Hines, Quincy, Mich., exhibited the reserve champion Hampshire gilt and sold her to Wade Stremsterfer, Pleasant Plains, Ill., for $1,700.

The 39 Hampshire gilts sold for a total of $31,675 and averaged $812.

Lacy Long, Waynesville, Ohio, exhibited the grand champion and top-selling Yorkshire boar, a son of JKG1 Point Given 45-2. Top Cut purchased this boar for $65,000. Top Cut also bought the reserve champion Yorkshire boar, a son on ARK0 Cobblestone 47-2. Bates Show Pigs, West Mansfield, Ohio, and Brent Bolen, Chrisman, Ill., exhibited the boar and sold him for $16,000.

Two other boars commanded the price of $16,000, as Gehret Genetic Team, Anna, Ohio, sold their boar to Jim McCoy, Bloomingburg, Ohio, and DGS Swine, Dahinda, Ill., sold their boar to Prairie State Semen Supply, Champaign, Ill.

The 19 Yorkshire boars averaged $8,139 and brought in a total of $154,650.

In the Yorkshire gilt show, Lindsay Robinson, Wellsville, Mo., claimed grand champion honors and sold her for $10.000 to Holley Farms, Bridgeport, Texas. Lindsay's father, Eddie, exhibited the reserve champion, a littermate, to Doug Porter, California, Mo., for $3,100

The second top-selling Yorkshire gilt was shown by Thomas Phillip Titus, Arcola, Ill., and sold to Coyote Farms, Danville, Ind., for $5,000

This set of purebred genetics sold to breeders in 20 states for a total of $735,000, a record for a three-breed sale. The Summer Type Conference was sponsored by the National Swine Registry, West Lafayette, Ind., and conducted at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville, July 3-6.

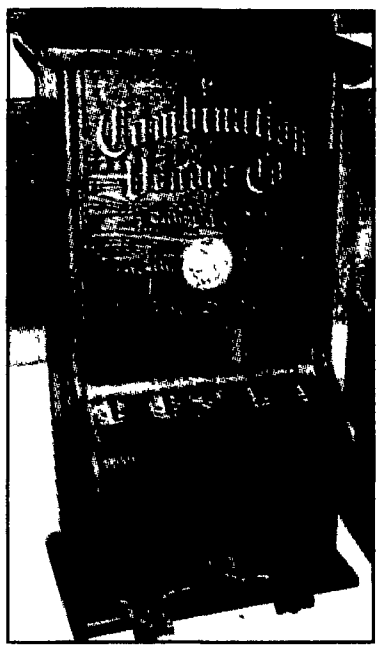
Rural Heritage Museum Is Worth A Visit



A very early vending machine.

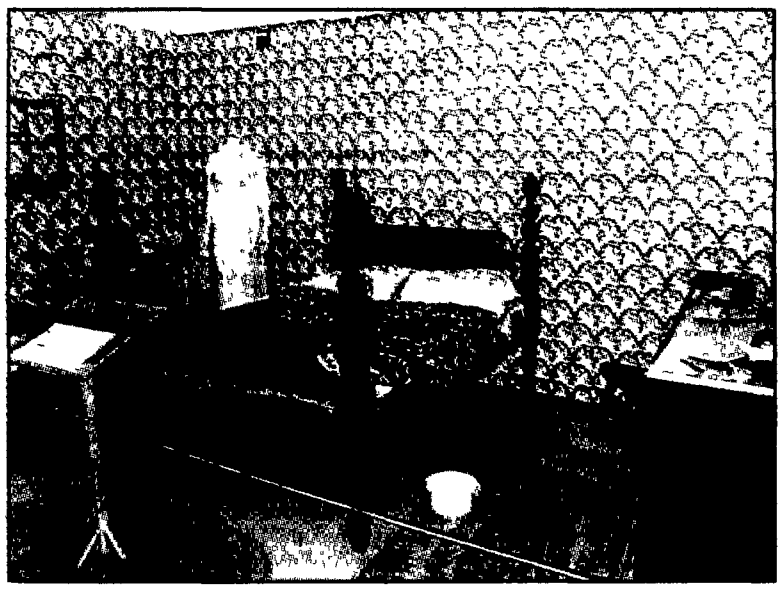
LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

HAGERSTOWN, Md. — In May 2001 the Rural Heritage Museum, celebrating the rural roots of all those who once lived in a different kind of Hagerstown, opened its doors for the first time.

In a location where Civil war bullets once flew, the museum is a tribute to the hard working country folk who helped make America great.

It is a project that stirs up memories of all those who grew up on farms when butchering and churning your own butter was a way of life. When cold winter evenings were spent playing checkers at the country store and the church was the center of all social activities.

The idea was initiated by a group of dedicated volunteers who wished to create a showcase in which to depict local rural life of the early 1900s.



A turn of the century country bedroom. The bed was not made for lingering.

Volunteers raised $700,000 through a matching grant fund with the State of Maryland and work on the museum began in July 2000. The 7,200 square-foot museum contains more then 2,000 items from a nostalgic past. Most of the artifacts are on loan or have been gifted to the museum of local residents.

The old Keedysville Post Office is presented here as it was in the days of World War I when rural residents would have hopefully looked for a letter from a soldier relative or a copy of the latest seed catalogue or even a brood of baby chicks.

Two Crawford bicycles made in Hagerstown are on display as is an original Conestoga Wagon. The wagon once traveled the National Road from Baltimore to Wheeling.

A telephone operator's switchboard once used at Camp David shares the room with a horse drawn hearse.

An old pump organ enhances the church setting. There are also early facets of the parlor and bedroom and a kitchen. When one school child was asked what was missing in the kitchen, he promptly answered, "the television."

There is a blacksmith shop and a display-case of antique veterinarian equipment. Old toys, water pumps, pitchforks, and a massive display of horse- and man-drawn plows and water pumps keep one wanting to remain in the museum for hours.

In total there are 26 exhibit areas depicting early rural life in Washington County.

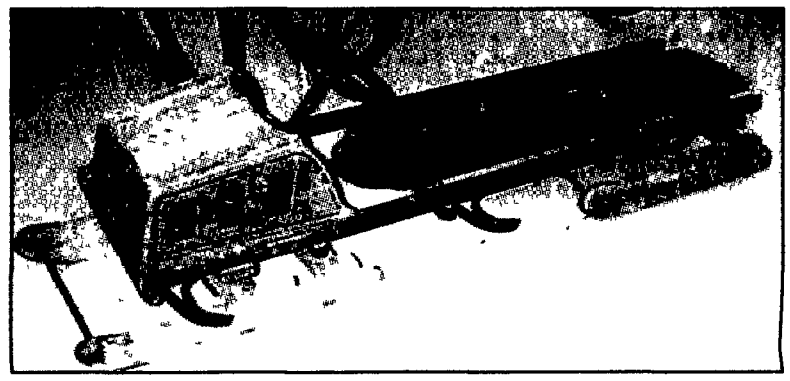
Visitors are introduced to the museum through an orientation center where they view a 20-minute video. The tour through the Museum is self-guided with docents available to answer questions.

Future plans for the museum include the establishment of a living history area, a project, currently in progress, that will benefit from a continuing $75,000 matching grant fund with the state.

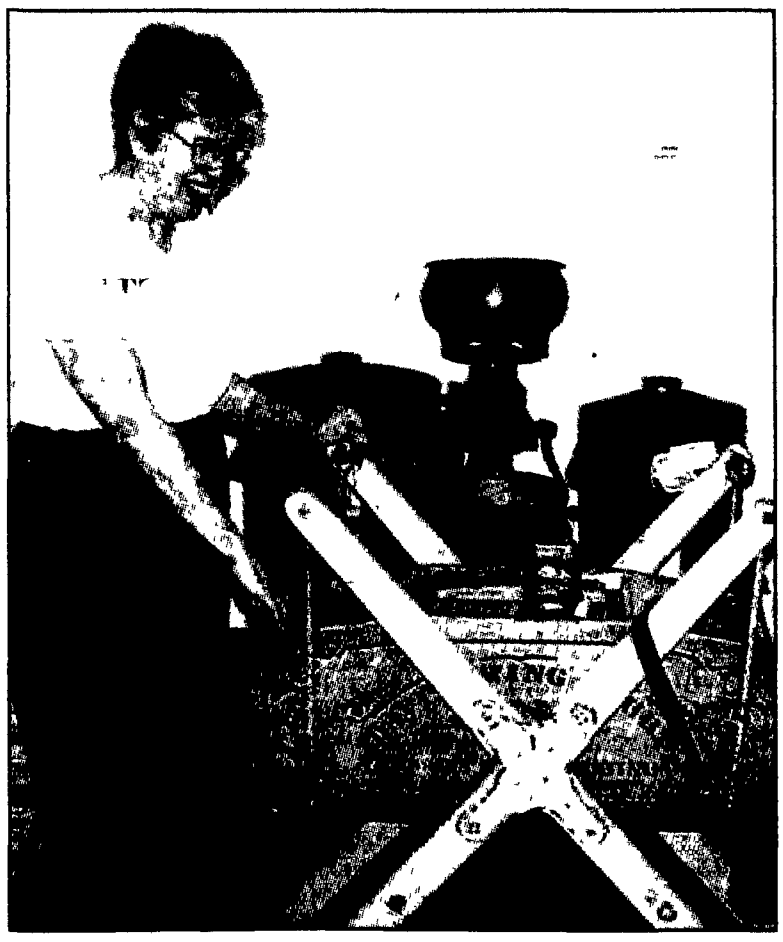
The museum has also recently begun to gather books and texts for an in-house research library to be available to Washington County citizens and students hoping to learn more about their rural roots.

Washington County's Rural Heritage Museum is open April through October on Saturday and Sunday afternoons from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. It is located at 7313 Sharpsburg Pike, Boonsboro, Md. 21713.

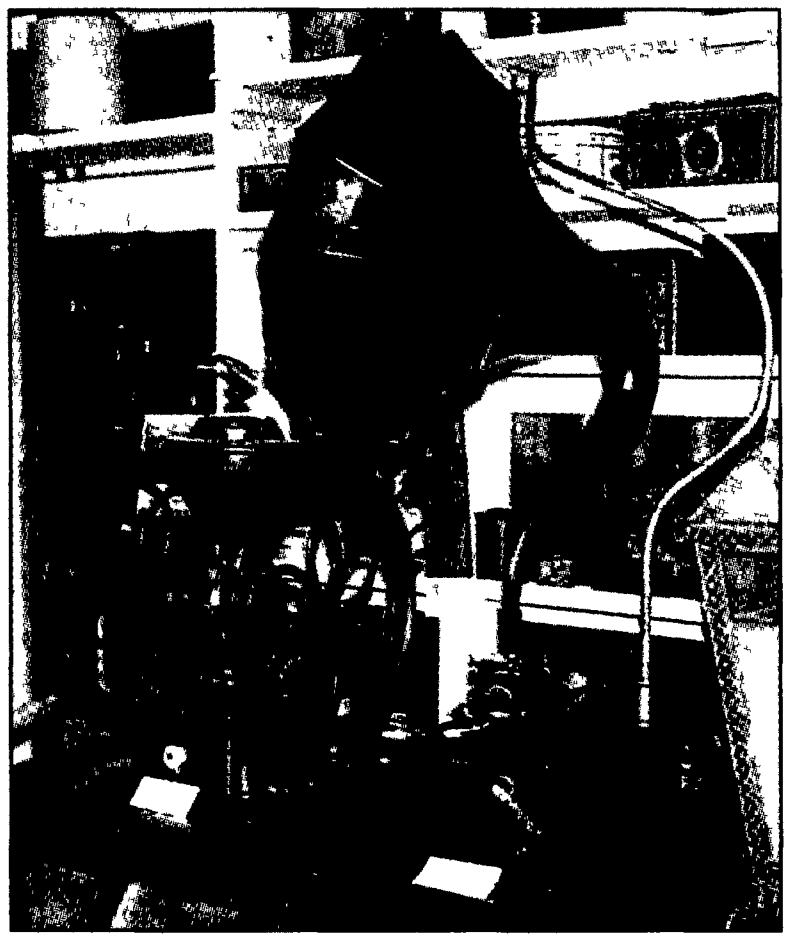
A horse-drawn casket.



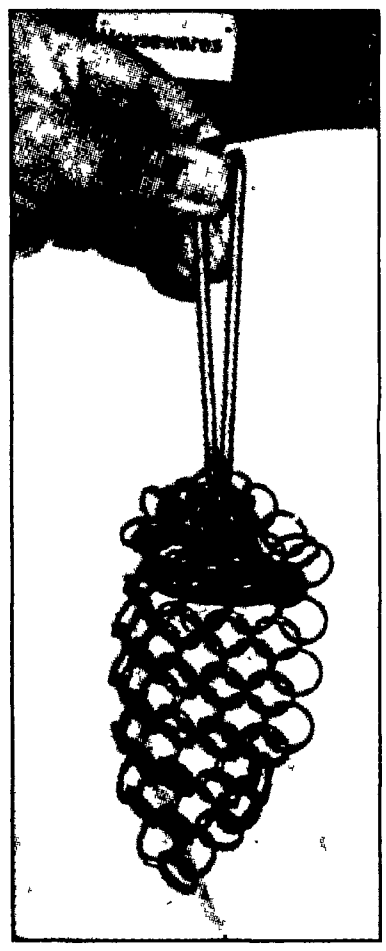
Remember when you slid down the hill on a vehicle such as this one?



An old time butter churn.



All this needs is the RCA dog.



Does anyone know what this is? The Rural Heritage Museum hasn't a clue and would love to have it identified.

Collectible Wrist Watches Can Be Old Or New

When a watch is a fine Rolex or Cartier an auction price in the thousands of dollars can be expected. These are among the top of the line wrist watches that make appearances at Christie's and Sotheby's auctions with regularity.

But, what about your mother 1930s or 1940s Elgin? While they still work do they have any value or should you sell them at a garage sale?

Along with costume jewelry, watches from the 1920s-1950s are being seriously collected. They have a new status as "vintage" wrist watches. Many find their way to jewelry auctions such as Skinner and Doyle. Even your local auction house could be the place to sell.

Never mind that the watch doesn't have a Patek Philippe & Co. or Piaget name on the face. Even the once humble Elgin and Gruen are collectible, although the value is considerably lower.

CLUES: For years the image of quality watches was Swiss, along with names like Baume & Mercier and Vacheron & Constanin. Times have changed. Collectors now look for American-made watches from the classic period (1900 to the 1950s) by such makers as Gruen, Longines and Hamilton.

Strangely enough, in the early 20th century, wristwatches were rejected by men as not being masculine. Now, it isn't unusual for men to have a wardrobe of wrist watches for every occasion from sports, to dressy and business.

Worth looking for are the 1920s Hamilton watches with unusual design features. These included the Coronado, the Spur and the Piping Rock, with stylized numerals.

Wristwatches became an important fashion accessory in the 1920s for both men and women. This included the stylized Art Deco motifs of the era. They were followed by the Streamline Moderne and Modern designs.

Novelty wristwatches had their beginnings in the 1930s with the reversible wristwatch.

It had a dial that could pivot 108 degrees and could be read with either face forward. By the mid 1930s Disney characters paved the way for the developing market for novelty watches. By the 1960s just about anything became a lampoon subject for novelty watches.

Wearable time pieces have come a long way from their beginnings in the late 15th century. The watches were worn like a dagger and hung from a belt. It was in the 17th century that many new kinds of clockwork movements led to a compact, light watch.

At first, these were a form of pocket watchers. A later version was the 19th century railroad watch. At this same time watches began to be specially created for women. At first the watches were in the form of pins, pendants, and brooches. The mid 19-century bracelet watches were first made for women.

It was Patek Philippe Co. that began manufacturing bracelet watches in 1868. Around the same time the watches began to be made in Switzerland. However, it was their use in the 1889s, by German naval officers that led to their popularity. They were rediscovered by American soldiers in World War I, as an alternative to the usual pocket watch. Shortly, many American companies, such as Elgin, began making them.

Look for unusual designs and shapes. There are reproductions of the Disney cartoon watches. Stylized Art Deco and Moderne wristwatchs can still turn up at estate sales for a few dollars. It is still possible to build a collection. Decide on the time span, type, men's, womens or children's character. Check out local auctions to get an idea of what others are willing to pay.

It's great if the watches work, but even if they don't, watches are collectible and probably can be fixed. There are price guides and books on the subject. Do your homework.

Three very collectible wristwatches that came to auction at Christie's: Perpetual Calendar wristwatch with retrograde date and moonphase by Patek Philippe; "Tiger" Pasha lady's wrist watch; and a perpetual calendar wristwatch with moonphase by Breguet. Photo credit: Christie's, Hong Kong.

REAL ESTATE AUCTION

Sat., October 5, 2002
@ 12:00 noon

Auction located 25 miles south of Mifflintown and 13 miles north of Shade Gap along Route 35.

100 Acre Juniata County Farm

A picturesque piece of real estate selling with many outstanding features such as a 1972 custom-built ranch dwelling, a newly built enclosed 30X45 Morton building, and a 50X80 bank barn with attached straw and wagon shed. A 3-bedroom ranch-style dwelling features hardwood floors throughout, modern eat-in kitchen, formal living room, 2 full bathrooms, a full concrete basement and all modern conveniences. The Morton building has an overhead garage door, windows and a concrete floor. Other outbuildings include a large bank barn, buggy shed and old two-story swine building.

This property offers over a mile of hardtop road frontage along State Route 35, has 85 acres tillable farmland and 15 acres ridge woodland with never-failing springs. Property is fronted by the Shade Mountain and backed by the stunning ridgelands of the Juniata Valley. An appropriate farm for grazing or crop farming, located in the heart of Central Pennsylvania's best whitetail, turkey & bear hunting. If looking for an investment, working farm or awesome hunting retreat, don't miss this opportunity!

Elizabethtown Fair Hosts Beef Show

SEP 1 2002

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Forty animals showed up to compete at Thursday's beef show at the Elizabethtown Fair.

In the breeding beef show, Katie Shultz, 9, Dillsburg, and her Hereford heifer came home with supreme champion in the breeding beef show.

"Buttercup" exhibited both femininity and overall broodiness, according to judge Sam Hunter.

Although she has been showing cattle in the open show since she was five or six, this is her first year of showing cattle as a 4-H'er. She also exhibits hogs.

Looking ahead to competing at York Fair, KILE, and the Farm Show, Katie has just returned home from competing in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, at the Hereford Junior Nationals, where the heifer got a seventh place in her class. She plans to breed the heifer and perhaps show her as a cow-calf pair.

Katie is the daughter of Dave and Julie Shultz, Shultz Cattle Company.

The Shultzes purchased the heifer at a sale in Gettysburg.

Caitlin Wolfgang, 12, and homebred "Roxie" took home grand champion Simmental honors in the breeding beef show. Caitlin is from Messick Farms, Middletown, and has four years of experience showing animals in 4-H.

Adam Zurin, Mount Joy, brought Shorthorns — two heifer and two steers — to the fair, and took home grand champion Shorthorn honors in the breeding beef show and grand champion honors in the selling division of the market beef show. Zurin's animal was supreme champion market animal.

Zurin was also grand champion beef showman.

In the breeding show Zurin won with "My Girl," a Shorthorn from Masonic Homes. The heifer, due to calve in early September, may come back into the ring in the future as a cow/calf pair, said Zurin. He has shown the heifer as a calf and plans to keep her in the herd and exhibit her calves.

In the non-selling market beef show Michael Shearer, 14, a freshman at Manheim Central, took home grand champion placing. Shearer is from a 400-acre crop and hog finishing operation.

His FFA steer, which he dubbed "Wild Thing" for the animal's antics in the ring, is the first steer he has shown, besides exhibiting dairy beef last year. He also shows hogs. The January Hereford calf was from an operation in Lebanon County.

Cliff Wetzel, a junior at Manheim Central High School, and his FFA heifer "Buttercup" took home a grand champion in the Crossbred show. This is his second year showing his animals, which he houses on a nearby farm.

He plans to exhibit at Manheim Farm Show and the upcoming Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Two Dauphin County 4-Hers took home top placings in the dairy beef show.

"Fireball," owned by Travis Fullerton, won grand champion placing in the dairy feeder steer competition. Judge Sam Hunter described the animal as "complete, long bodied, stylish, and uniform in thickness."

This is the only fair that Travis, 9, Elizabethtown, will exhibit animals. Also, this is his first year showing dairy beef. He purchased his animal fro Kenneth Myer, Elizabethtown, operator of a local dairy farm and the fair president. Travis also exhibited an animal at Roundup.

Ty Long won reserve grand champion placing. "TJ," 11, is from Hershey and keeps his animals at his grandparent's Elstan Farm. He is the son of Ty and Tracy Long. Besides bringing the dairy beef and one sheep to the show, he brought an overall reserve champion hog to the fair.

The final count of cattle in the competition was 5 animals in the selling division, 8 non-selling, 13 in the breeding beef show, and 14 dairy beef animals.

Sam Hunter, Hagerstown, Maryland, judged the show. Hunter operates a herd of 80 Hereford brood cos on 240 acres, SCH Polled Herefords. He judges 6-8 shows every year, mostly beef shows, in various states. This competition was his first time judging at Elizabethtown.

Hindman Family Named Premier Breeder, Exhibitor At Northwest Holstein Show

Their 4-year-old cow, Deep-Valley Starz Sherry, was named the best of 158 Holsteins brought to the show.

The Dale Hindman family of Highland-H Farms was selected as the premier breeder and exhibitor. Included in their success was the homebred cow selected as overall reserve champion and best bred and owned. She was exhibited by Christy Hindman.

Judge Dan Doner called the following results:

More Than 575 Juniors Compete At National Swine Event

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. — More than 575 junior purebred swine enthusiasts from 26 states gathered in Louisville, Ky., July 3-6, to compete for champion titles in the fifth annual National Junior Summer Spectacular at the Kentucky Expo Center.

In the purebred gilt show, Warren Beeler, Caneyville, Ky., and Steve Nichols, Delphi, Ind., selected champion gilts from 676 entries on Thursday, July 4. The champion gilt overall was awarded $1,000, a clock and an Alum-Line popper, and the reserve champion gilt overall received $500 and a clock. Each breed champion received $250, and the reserve breed champions received $100.

Casey Heimer, Colfax, Ill., claimed the overall champion title in the purebred gilt show, exhibiting a Yorkshire female that first claimed champion Yorkshire gilt. This Jan. 13 gilt was a daughter of MBRO9 Sweetness 194-13. The overall reserve grand champion was a Duroc gilt exhibited by Jordan Malcolm, Huntertown, Ind. This Jan. 1 gilt is a daughter of BAD1 Select Move 64-1. She was first named champion Duroc female.

Carrie Adams, Willis, Texas, exhibited the reserve champion Yorkshire female with her Jan. 13 daughter of MBRO9 Sweetness 194-13, a littermate to the champion Yorkshire. The champion bred and owned Yorkshire was shown by Thomas Titus, Arcola, Ill., with his Jan. 11 daughter of MBRO9 Sweetness 194-13.

In the Duroc show, Amanda Froedge, Crawfordsville, Ind., claimed reserve champion honors with her Jan. 1 daughter of BAD1 Select Move 64-1, a littermate to the champion Duroc gilt. Kasey Smith, Washington Courthouse, Ohio, exhibited the Duroc bred and owned champion with his Jan. 15 daughter of JAMI0 Big Red Machine 2-1.

Kelton Mason, Plains, Texas, drove a Jan. 7 daughter of HMMC0 Lifeline 6-12 to the title of champion Hampshire gilt. The reserve champion Hampshire and champion bred and owned Hampshire was shown by Amara Danner, Chalmers, Ind. Her gilt was a Jan. 8 daughter of RMF0 Louisville Slugger.

In the Landrace show, Tana Simmons, Tipton, Ind., captured the title of champion with her Jan. 16 daughter H-H1 Karlstorp 3-5. The reserve champion Landrace was a Jan. 16 daughter of H-H1 Karlstorp 3-5, shown by Brock Heimer, Colfax, Ill., also a littermate to the champion Landrace gilt. Emily Weinberg, Trenton, Ill., exhibited the Landrace bred and owned champion with her Feb. 14 daughter of CR9 PSSS Snake 152-1.

Change Processor In Seconds!

The new Crop Processor can be switched from processing to not processing right from the cab. In seconds, bottom hyd. roller moves down allowing the processor cover plate to enter for crops to pass through freely. The processor never has to be removed from the machine. Available on the FX28, 38 and 58.

Big capacity. Uniform chop.

Only the FP230 and FP240 forage harvesters from New Holland give you best-in-class and chop quality.

- Rugged 1,000-rpm driveline matches higher-horsepower tractors up to 225 and 300 PTO hp.
- Massive 12-knife cutterhead produces a uniform length of cut from 1/16" to 1-5/8" with four knives.
- Knife sharpening and shearbar adjustment are easy to keep cutting performance at its best.
- Optional on-board Crop-Pro™ crop processor makes feed more digestible and saves the expense and time of using a stationary roller mill.
- Optional Metalert® III electronic metal detector gives you peace of mind.

Stop in and see the FP230 with Crop Processor today.

Move mountains of forage

Keeping pace with your harvester and forage wagons can be a challenge...unless you have a New Holland forage blower. Choose from two models that move mountains of forage–fast!

Model F62B
- High-capacity blower center-fills silos over 100 feet tall
- 37-inch large-capacity hopper; 12-inch feed auger; 60-inch diameter blower fan
- Blows 180 tons per hour of corn silage; 110 tons per hour of haylage

Model 40 Whirl-a-Feed®
- Center fills silos 80 feet and higher
- Efficient Whirl-A-Feed® high-speed rotary table spins crop into the blower
- Blows 150 tons of corn silage per hour; 80 tons of haylage per hour

Come in for a demonstration today!

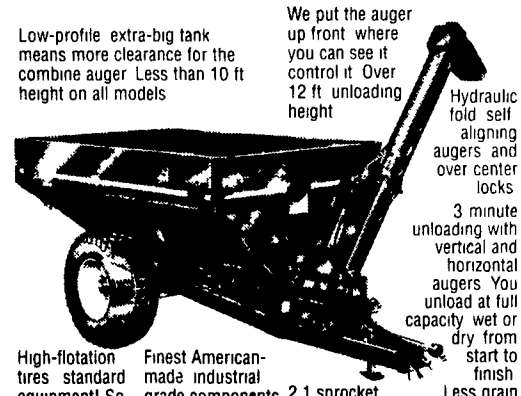
How KINZE designed the world's best Auger Wagon.

Model 440 (440 bushel) Model 640 (625 bushel) Model 840 (825 bushel)

Low-profile extra-big tank means more clearance for the combine auger Less than 10 ft height on all models

We put the auger up front where you can see it control it Over 12 ft unloading height

Hydraulic fold self aligning augers and over center locks



3 minute unloading with vertical and horizontal augers You unload at full capacity wet or dry from start to finish Less grain damage because augers run full Much more efficient than single auger carts

High-flotation tires standard equipment! So you keep moving, even in soft, greasy fields

Finest American-made industrial grade components money can buy, with chain oiler and grease bank for easy maintenance

2 1 sprocket reduction drive system Especially important when unloading high-moisture grain

Call Binkley & Hurst Bros. today and discover the "quality force" in moving grain.

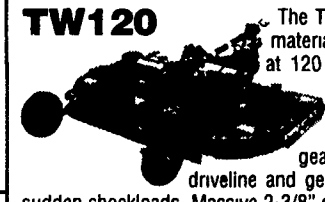
TW120



The TW120 cuts a 120" swath of material The center gearbox, rated at 120 HP, transfers power to the 100 HP outboard gearboxes Torque dampeners on both sides of the center gearbox help prevent driveline and gearbox damage caused from sudden shockloads Massive 2-3/8" diameter output shafts in the outboard gearboxes help provide optimum service The pull-type and semi-mount units require a 50 HP (min) tractor and the lift-type unit requires a 60 HP (min) tractor (with adequate front weights)

TW120 - 10' Cut • TW84 - 7' Cut • TW72 - 6' Cut

SE15 Rhino Batwing Cutter With 160 HP Gear Boxes

DB150. Over 30 years of hydraulic mower design experience has made the Rhino® DB150 the preferred choice of experienced operators for the mowing of pond banks, levees, drainage ditches, and hard-to-reach areas

The DB150 can extend to a maximum of 158" from the center line of the tractor allowing the 60 inch rotary head to cut areas that are difficult or impossible to reach with ordinary mowers By being hydraulically driven, maintenance is greatly reduced with the absence of belts and pulleys The DB150 outperforms many competitive units with smaller hydraulic systems The DB150 utilizes a 60 gallon hydraulic system which allows the unit to run cooler in tough mowing conditions The large reservoir also serves as a counterweight and remains stationary on the mainframe, eliminating the potential traffic hazard of a movable counter-balance weight The DB150 features a heavy-duty three-point hitch using a lower double lug hitch system to fit a wide range of tractors To help insure a clean cut, the DB150 features updraft blades and a blade tip speed of 20,028 FPM

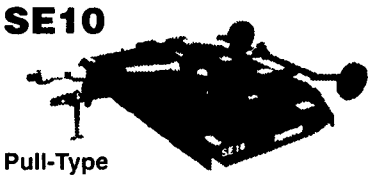
Tough and Economical Family of Cutters!

5', 6' and 7' Models, 540 RPM, Shear Bolt or Slip Clutch Protection, Pan Blade Carriers, Updraft Blades, CAT I Three-Point Hitch, CAT II Three-Point Hitch (SE7); Rated for 1" Diameter Material, Safety Deflectors Standard

5 and 6 Foot

SE10



Pull-Type

The pull-type SE10 requires only a 45 HP (min) tractor for economical, wide-cut mowing A hydraulic cylinder or ratchet lift screw is available for raising and lowering the mower A spring shock absorber is optional to help cushion shockloads to the mainframe when operating in rough terrain (Unit shown with optional chain guards Deflectors are standard)

CLUTCHES/GEAR REDUCTION ASSEMBLIES

Our Specialty
We stock them, stock the parts, pinions, gears, bearings, seals & gaskets, splined out puts, shafts, housing adaptors/reducers, and pilot bearing holders. With little or no changes, these new clutch/gear reduction assemblies could fit your gas or diesel engine - 50-100hp. Five different gear ratios. A valuable link between your engine and power take-off shaft equipment.

CLUTCH / 5.8:1 Planetary Gear Reduction Assemblies

For 8-30 HP Engines
Fits most — Honda, Robin, Kohler, Kawasaki, others (1-2 cyl.)

- Fits most standard crankshafts – 1", 1⅛", 1⅜"
- Aluminum Castings/Housings
- Ball & roller bearings, hardened gears

Case IH Launches Four New Lines Of Tractors

Case IH recently unveiled four new tractor lines in the 40 to 240 hp range. From left, Case IH JX Series Maxxima utility tractors range from 42 to 80 PTO hp; MXM Series Maxxum tractors range from 95 to 160 PTO hp; MX Series Magnum tractors range from 170 to 240 PTO hp; and the second line in the Maxxima family, the JXU Series utility tractors, range from 66 to 82 PTO hp.

RACINE, Wis. — Case IH has announced new lines and upgrades for all tractors ranging from 40 to 240 PTO hp.

"At Case IH, we pride ourselves on providing a full line of equipment designed to help growers increase their productivity," says Jim Irwin, vice president of the Case IH North American agricultural business. "With the launch of these four industry-leading tractor lines, we are able to provide our customers and dealers with ranges of tractors that will compete favorably with anything on the market."

The lines being introduced are:

- The Maxxima family of utility tractors, including:
- JX Series Maxxima utility tractors, ranging from 42 to 80 PTO hp; and
- JXU Series Maxxima utility tractors, ranging from 66 to 82 PTO hp.
- MXM Series Maxxum® row-crop tractors, ranging from 95 to 160 PTO hp.
- MX Series Magnum row-crop tractors, ranging from 170 to 240 PTO hp.

The new utility tractor lines also feature a new name badge — Maxxima.

"We're taking this opportunity to unveil a family name for our new utility lines," Irwin says. "The Maxxima name comes from some of the same Latin roots as its big brothers, Magnum and Maxxum, signifying its important place in the Case IH lineup."

Value-packed JX Series Maxxima tractors are available in either 2-wheel drive or mechanical front-wheel drive configurations, with a cab or flat-deck ROPS. This line is well suited to hobby and lifestyle farmers, homeowners and producers looking for an affordable alternative.

"The JX Series offers tremendous value in a no-nonsense chore tractor," says Irwin. "The simple, well-proven mechanical design offers key features like an optional cab, mechanical front-wheel drive, a left-hand shuttle and differential lock."

The JXU Series Maxxima line offers three powershift transmission options, including a deluxe 24x24 two-speed powershift that uses an electronic-over-hydraulic powershuttle for fingertip control.

"Full-featured Case IH JXU Series Maxxima utility tractors were designed to meet the day-to-day needs of dairy and cow-calf operations," Irwin notes. "Whether it's loader work, mowing and baling hay, or field cultivation, JXU tractors deliver reliable productivity."

The MXM Series Maxxum tractors, completely redesigned for 2002, are high-performance, versatile row crop tractors. Like the JXU, the MXM Series simplifies materials handling operations with a clutchless, left-hand shuttle, joystick operation, and mechanical or hydraulic self-leveling loaders.

Unlike the JXU, the MXM Series is designed for heavy field work, with a 7.5-liter turbocharged engine, 18X6 full powershift transmission, end-of-row functions and a headland management control system.

"The headland management control system allows the operator to record up to 28 tasks commonly performed at the headland, such as raising and lowering implements and shifting gears," explains Irwin. "Once programmed, the tractor will perform these functions automatically, saving operators time and fatigue."

The MX Series Magnum tractors are the row crop workhorses from Case IH. Their proven performance is enhanced with a suspended front axle, performance monitor,

Sterling Financial Launches Heroes Fund

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Sterling Financial Corporation, parent company of Bank of Lancaster County, Bank of Lebanon County, Bank of Hanover, and First National Bank of North East, has announced that they would donate the returns from a $500,000 investment account to bolster community-based homeland security efforts.

The Sterling Heroes Fund will be managed by the Sterling Financial Trust Company, which will invest the monies over a three-year period and then donate the proceeds to local firefighters, police and other emergency workers in Pennsylvania and Maryland.

"Since Sept. 11, we have all asked ourselves, 'What can we do to help?'" Our answer is to do what we do best — put our investment expertise on the line to benefit the people who put themselves on the line for us every day," said Sterling Financial Trust Company CEO Greg Lefever. "In launching this program, we invite others to join us in honoring the real heroes in our neighborhoods as they carry out some of our most important jobs."

Sterling Financial Corporation has established the Sterling Heroes Fund to encourage community support for local emergency services organizations. EMS agencies are encouraged to participate by joining other emergency services organizations as a customer of Sterling Financial Trust Company.

EMS customers will receive investment management services free of charge for one year and also will be eligible to receive a reserved portion of the Sterling Heroes Fund investment proceeds. Fifty percent of the proceeds will be divided across participating EMS customers and the remaining 50 percent will be distributed to emergency services organizations throughout the Pennsylvania and Maryland service areas.

Anyone interested in contributing to the Sterling Heroes Fund can find out more by visiting any branch office or the Sterling Financial Trust Company Website at www.slfitrust.com.

"We invite individuals, community groups and other businesses to join us in supporting the Sterling Heroes Fund," said John Stefan, chairman of Sterling Financial Corporation. "This is a chance for all of us to provide financial support for our local fire, police and emergency management agencies Our initial investment is just the beginning of where this can go. We see it as a win-win for our employees, our customers and our communities."

MidAtlantic Farm Credit Awards Three Scholarships

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Mid-Atlantic Farm Credit has announced that three students have received a total of $7,500 in scholarships towards their college education. Applicants for the scholarship program had to be members or the children of current members.

Joel Krall, Lebanon, is the son of Tom and Shirley Krall and a 2002 graduate of Cedar Crest High School. He will be entering his freshman year at Penn State University in University Park where he plans to major in animal science and ag business management. Joel was active in many school and community activities including FFA, National Honor Society, youth group, and youth mission trips just to name a few.

Charles "Ben" Peoples, son of John and Bonnie Peoples of Rising Sun, Md., plans to attend Bethany College in West Virginia where he will major in political science. He is a 2002 graduate of Rising Sun High School in Northeast, Md. While in high school he was involved in the soccer program, National Honor Society, and youth group. He is very active at his church and served as an assistant coach with the local youth soccer club.

Emily Towle is the final recipient of a MidAtlantic Farm Credit scholarship. She is the daughter of Larry and Barbra Towle who reside in Wyoming, Del. A graduate of Caesar Rodney High School in Camden, Del., she plans to attend the University of Delaware in Newark, Del. Her plans are to work in the field of agricultural education. Emily has participated in various school and community activities as well as performing volunteer work.

"We feel it is important to help promote the education of our membership, current and future," said Bob Frazee, president of MidAtlantic Farm Credit. "Our scholarship program is one way in which we're doing that. Programs like this are just one more benefit of belonging to a cooperative," he said.

Balbion Becomes Blue Seal Dairy Sales Representative

LONDONDERRY, N.H. — John Balbion of Amsterdam, N.Y. recently joined Blue Seal as a dairy sales representative. He will serve Blue Seal customers from the Chatham, N.Y. mill.

Balbion has a BA from Cornell and advanced degrees from University of Albany. For the last five years he has operated a dairy farm in Amsterdam, N.Y.

Growmark And Agway Announce Letter Of Intent

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. — Agricultural cooperatives Growmark, Inc., Bloomington, Ill., and Agway Inc., Syracuse, N.Y., recently announced the signing of a Letter of Intent that provides Growmark with exclusive rights to negotiate for the possible acquisition of Agway's Agronomy and Seedway businesses and related assets.

In March 2002, Agway announced that it was taking steps to divest several business units including Agway Agronomy and Seedway. Agway Agronomy, headquartered in Milford, Del., sells fertilizer, crop protection products, and farm seed. Seedway, headquartered in Hall, N.Y., sells turf, vegetable, and farm seed.

Two Insurance Groups Announce Alliance

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Westfield Group and American Agrisurance, Inc. (AmAg®) have announced a joint marketing alliance for the sale of crop insurance to agricultural producers throughout the northeastern and mid-Atlantic United States.

According to Scott Orndorff, Westfield senior executive, and Dennis Daggett, AmAg chief marketing officer, this alliance established a powerful partnership that provides producers with one outlet for all of their insurance needs.

"Both companies are committed to expanding the use of crop insurance and financial risk management strategies in areas where there is low participation in the Federal crop insurance program," Daggett said. 'This partnership will bring new agricultural products and services to a traditionally under-served market."

Scott Orndorff said, "New innovations in the Federal crop insurance program convinced us this industry was a valuable addition to our portfolio for our customers, and we want to work with a leading, reputable company like AmAg. AmAg is known for its innovation of new products and services. We are pleased to partner with them in bringing this new benefit to our current agricultural producers. This alliance also gives us access to existing agricultural producers in areas we are targeting for expansion."

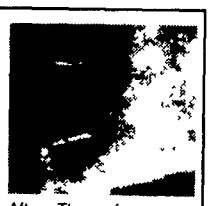
WARNING! DETERIORATING CONCRETE FROM CORN JUICE!

WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS

Check your silo now for rotten staves. If you have been using your silo for 10 to 15 years for either corn silage or haylage, it is time to SHOTCRETE

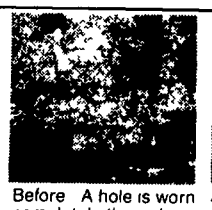
RESURFACES INTERIORS:
- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable, tough, acid-resistant
- Increase useful life
- Economical

Before The silo's interior with plaster damage and stave exposed



After The surface is reconditioned and a new thick tough surface will protect stored feed

REPAIRS HOLES:
- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface



Before A hole is worn completely through the silo wall

After With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied the silo is ready for years of use

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:
- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original

Before The bottom part of the staves are completely worn away

After The ShotCrete System repairs and replaces the missing structure

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced

• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

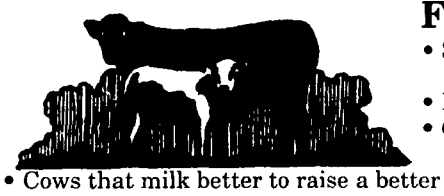
Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients

For Beef



- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf
